

CONTENTS

Preface	ix
Contents	xiii
List of Illustrations	xix
Short Titles	xxi
Introduction	xxiii
A Voyage to Abyssinia
Dedication	2
The Preface	3
The Contents.*
<hr style="width: 60%; margin: 0 auto;"/> A Voyage to Abyssinia.
<hr style="width: 80%; margin: 0 auto;"/>
Chapter I.	7
The author arrives after some difficulties at Goa. Is chosen for the mission of Aethiopia. The fate of those Jesuits who went by Zeila. The author arrives at the coast of Melinda.
Chapter II.	13
The author lands: the difficulty of his journey. An account of the Galles, and of the author's reception at the king's tent; their manner of swearing, and of letting blood. The author returns to the Indies, and finds the Patriarch of Aethiopia.
Chapter III.	18
The author embarks with the Patriarch, narrowly escapes shipwreck near the isle of Socotora: enters the Arabian Gulf, and the Red-Sea. Some account of the coast of the Red-Sea.
Chapter IV.	24
The author's conjecture on the name of the Red-Sea. An account of the coco-tree. He lands at Baylur.
Chapter V.	28
An account of Dancali. The conduct of Chec Furt. The author wounded, they arrive at the court of the King of Dancali; a description of his pavilion, and the reception they met with.

*Printed at the end of the volume in 1735.

Chapter VI.	31
The King refuses their present. The author's boldness. The present is afterwards accepted. The people are forbidden to sell them provisions. The author remonstrates against the usage. The King redresses it.
Chapter VII.	33
They obtain leave with some difficulty, to depart from Dancali. The difficulties of their march. A broil with the Moors. They arrive at the plain of salt.
Chapter VIII.	36
They lose their way, are in continual apprehensions of the Galles. They come to Duan, and settle in Abyssinia.
A Description of Abyssinia
Chapter I.	40
The history of Abyssinia. An account of the Queen of Sheba, and of Queen Candace. The conversion of the Abyssins.
Chapter II.	45
The animals of Abyssinia, the elephant, unicorn, their horses and cows, with a particular account of the moroc .
Chapter III.	48
The manner of eating in Abyssinia, their dress, their hospitality, and traffick.
Chapter IV.	52
An account of the religion of the Abyssins.
Chapter V.	63
The adventures of the Portuguese, and the actions of Don Christopher de Gama in Aethiopia.
Chapter VI.	67
Mahomet continues the war and is kill'd. The stratagem of Peter Leon.
Chapter VII.	70
They discover the reliques. Their apprehension of the Galles. The author converts a criminal, and procures his pardon.
Chapter VIII.	73
The Viceroy is offended by his wife. He complains to the Emperor but without redress. He meditates a revolt, raises an army, and makes an attempt to seize upon the author.

CONTENTS	XV
Chapter IX.	77
The Viceroy is defeated and hanged. The author narrowly escapes being poison'd.
Chapter X.	81
A description of the Nile.
Chapter XI.	89
The author discovers a passage over the Nile. Is sent into the province of Ligonou, which he gives a description of. His success in his mission. The stratagem of the monks to encourage the soldiers. The author narrowly escapes being burned.
Chapter XII.	93
The author is sent into Tigre, is in danger of being poison'd by the breath of a serpent; is stung by a serpent. Is almost kill'd by eating anchoy . The people conspire against the missionaries, and distress them.
Chapter XIII.	99
The author relieves the Patriarch and missionaries, and supports them. He escapes several snares laid for him by the Viceroy of Tigre. They put themselves under the protection of the Prince of Bar.
Chapter XIV.	107
They are betray'd into the hands of the Turks. Are detain'd a while at Mazua: are threatned by the Bassa of Suaquem: they agree for their ransom, and are part of them dismissed.
Chapter XV.	111
Their treatment on board the vessel. Their reception at Diou. The author applies to the Viceroy for assistance, but without success; he is sent to sollicite in Europe.

---

The Sequel of the Account of Abyssinia

Chapter I.	118
The calamities that befell the missionaries in Aethiopia. A counterfeit bishop is detected in Abyssinia; another, imagined a favourer of the Catholicks, is chosen.
Chapter II.	122
The Patriarch and his companions suffer great miseries; are ransomed, and arrive at Diou. Their reception there; with the fate of the other missionaries in Abyssinia.

Chapter III.	124
Other missionaries are sent into Abyssinia, their persecution and death. The Patriarch attempts to send more. The vigilance of the Emperor; who seizes his brother on suspicion, and puts him to death.
Chapter IV.	130
The Patriarch sends letters to Father Nogueira. The Emperor renews the persecution. His ill success in his other affairs.
Chapter V.	134
Mr. Poncet goes into Aethiopia, comes back with a pretended ambassador. Is well received at Paris and at Rome. An envoy arrives at Paris from the Patriarch of Alexandria.
Chapter VI.	140
The miscarriage of Mr. Poncet's second voyage. Mr. du Roule sets out on his journey to Abyssinia; is opposed and calumniated; he arrives at Sanaar, and is assassinated there by the King's command.
Chapter VII.	145
Several revolutions happen'd in Abyssinia. The Emperor's letter relating to the death of Mr. du Roule. The endeavours of the French consul to revenge it.

---

Dissertations Relating to the History of Abyssinia

Dissertation the First, upon Mr. Ludolf's history of Abyssinia.	151
Dissertation the Second, upon Aethiopia, or Abyssinia.	159
Dissertation the Third, upon the Nile.	168
Dissertation on the eastern side of Africa, from Melinda to the streight of Babelmandel.	181
Dissertation the Fourth, on Prester-John.	190
Dissertation the Fifth, on the kings of Abyssinia, their coronation, titles, queens and sons. Of their armies, and the manner of distributing justice.	207
Dissertation the Sixth, on the Red-Sea, and the navigation of Solomon's fleets.	215
Dissertation the Seventh, on the Queen of Sheba.	225
Dissertation the Eighth, upon circumcision.	233
Dissertation the Ninth, on the conversion of the Abyssins.	244
Dissertation the Tenth, on the errors of the Abyssins, relating to the Incarnation.	265

Dissertation the Eleventh, concerning the sacraments, particularly those of baptism and confirmation.	272
Dissertation the Twelfth, on the Eucharist and penance.	284
Dissertation the Thirteenth, on extreme unction, ordination and marriage.	296
Dissertation the Fourteenth, on the invocation of saints, miracles, prayers for the dead, fasts, images, and reliques.	305
Dissertation the Fifteenth, on the hierarchy or government of the Church of Aethiopia.	313
Index	319