

CONTENTS

Preface	vii
Contents	ix
List of Illustrations	xiii
Introduction to the Idler	xv
Short Titles	xxix

THE IDLER

1. The Idler's character	3
2. Invitation of correspondents	6
3. The Idler's reason for writing	9
4. Charities and hospitals	12
5. Proposal for a female army	16
6. Lady's performance on horse-back	19
7. Scheme for news-writers	22
8. Plan of military discipline	26
9. Progress of idleness	29
10. Political credulity	32
11. Discourses on the weather	36
12. Marriages why advertised	39
13. The imaginary housewife	42
14. Robbery of time	45
15. Treacle's complaint of his wife	48
16. Drugget's retirement	50
17. Expedients of Idlers	53
18. Drugget vindicated	56
19. Whirler's character	59
20. Louisbourg's history	62
21. Linger's history of listlessness	66
22. Imprisonment of debtors	69
23. Uncertainty of friendship	72
24. Man does not always think	74
25. New actors on the theatre	77

26. Betty Broom's history	80
27. Power of habits	83
28. Wedding day—grocer's wife—chairman	86
29. Betty Broom's history	89
30. Corruption of news-writers	92
31. Disguises of idleness. Sober's character	95
32. Sleep	98
33. Journal of a fellow of a college	101
34. Punch and conversation	106
35. Auction hunter	109
36. The terrifick diction	111
37. Iron and gold	115
38. Debtors in prison	117
39. The bracelet	121
40. Art of advertising	124
41. On the death of a friend	128
42. Perdita's complaint of her father	131
43. Monitions on the flight of time	134
44. Use of memory	137
45. Portraits defended	139
46. Molly Quick's complaint of her mistress	143
47. Deborah Ginger's account of city wits	146
48. The bustles of idleness	150
49. Marvel's journey	152
50. Marvel paralleled	155
51. Domestick greatness unattainable	158
52. Self-denial necessary	161
53. Mischiefs of good company	164
54. Mrs. Savecharges's complaint	168
55. Authours' mortifications	171
56. Virtuosos whimsical	175
57. Character of Sophron the prudent	177
58. Expectations of pleasure frustrated	180
59. Books fall into neglect	182
60. Minim the critick	184
61. Minim the critick	189
62. Ranger's account of the vanity of riches	193
63. Progress of arts and language	196
64. Ranger's complaint concluded	198
65. Fate of posthumous works	201
66. Loss of ancient writings	205
67. Scholar's journal	207
68. History of translations	211

69. History of translations	214
70. Hard words defended	217
71. Dick Shifter's rural excursion	220
72. Regulation of memory	224
73. Tranquil's use of riches	227
74. Memory rarely deficient	229
75. Gelaleddin of Bassora	232
76. False criticisms on painting	235
77. Easy writing	239
78. Steady, Snug, Startle, Solid, and Misty	242
79. Grand stile of painting	246
80. Ladies' journey to London	249
81. Indian's speech to his countrymen	252
82. The true idea of beauty	254
83. Scruple, Wormwood, Sturdy, and Gentle	258
84. Biography how best performed	261
85. Books multiplied by useless compilations	264
86. Miss Heartless's want of a lodging	267
87. Amazonian bravery revived	269
88. What have ye done?	273
89. Physical evil moral good	275
90. Rhetorical action considered	278
91. Sufficiency of the English language	281
92. Nature of cunning	284
93. Sam Softly's history	287
94. Obstructions of learning	289
95. Tim. Wainscot's son a fine gentleman	292
96. Hacho of Lapland	295
97. Narratives of travellers considered	298
98. Sophia Heedful	300
99. Ortogrul of Basra	302
100. The good sort of woman	305
101. Omar's plan of life	309
102. Authours inattentive to themselves	311
103. Horror of the last	314
104. Original No. 22	317
Introduction to the Adventurer	323

THE ADVENTURER

34. Folly of extravagance. The story of Misargyrus	339
39. An encomium on sleep	345

41. Sequel to the story of Misargyrus	351
45. The difficulty of forming confederacies	356
50. On lying	361
53. Misargyrus's account of his companions in the Fleet	366
58. Presumption of modern criticism censured. Ancient poetry necessarily obscure. Examples from Horace	371
62. Misargyrus's account of his companions concluded	378
67. On the trades of London	383
69. Idle hope	389
74. Apology for neglecting officious advice	395
81. Incitement to enterprize and emulation. Some account of the Admirable Crichton	400
84. Folly of false pretences to importance. A journey in a stage coach	406
85. Study, composition, and converse, equally necessary to intellectual accomplishment	411
92. Criticism on the pastorals of Virgil	417
95. Apology for apparent plagiarism. Sources of literary variety	424
99. Projectors injudiciously censured and applauded	429
102. Infelicities of retirement to men of business	435
107. Different opinions equally plausible	440
108. The uncertainty of human things	446
111. The pleasures and advantages of industry	451
115. The itch of writing universal	456
119. The folly of creating inartificial wants	461
120. The miseries of life	466
126. Solitude not eligible	471
128. Men differently employed, unjustly censured by each other	476
131. Singularity censured	481
137. Writers not a useless generation	487
138. Their happiness and infelicity	492
Index	499