

Contents

List of Illustrations	xi
Abbreviations	xii
INTRODUCTION	1
PART ONE NARRATIVE DISCOURSE AND PRINT CULTURE FROM PAMELA TO TRISTRAM SHANDY
1. STERNE AND THE ‘NEW SPECIES OF WRITING’	15
Tristram Shandy , Satire, and the Novel	18
Imagining Dr Slop	27
Representation and Reading in Richardson and Fielding	36
2. NOVELS, PRINT, AND MEANING	49
Novels of the 1750s	49
Literary Commodities and Printed Artefacts	63
Tristram’s Wordless Pages	72
PART TWO THE SERIALIZATION OF TRISTRAM SHANDY
3. THE PRACTICE AND POETICS OF SERIAL FICTION	85
Publishing Middlemarch , 1871–1872	88
Publishing Tristram Shandy , 1759–1767	97
4. SERIALIZING A SELF	113
The Uses of Deferral, Scheherezade to Smollett	113
Dying by Numbers	132
Epitasis, Catastasis, Catastrophe	143

PART THREE STERNE IN THE LITERARY CULTURE
OF THE 1760S

5. TRISTRAM SHANDY AND THE FRESHEST MODERNS	153
Fashion, Disorder, and the Nonsense Club	158
Sterne and the Ossianic Vogue	165
Narratives of Loss	174
6. THE LITERATURE OF WHIGGISM AND THE POLITICS OF WAR	184
Tristram Shandy , Whig Politics, and the Readership for Marvell	184
Horticulture Wars: Uncle Toby and Upon Appleton House	197
The Apologetical Oration and the Cry for a Peace	208
Index	215