

CONTENTS

1 Modelling English	2	6 Modern English	80	Unusual Structures	140	Knowing vs Knowing
		Transition	80	Lexical Creation	142	About	203
PART I The History of English	4	Grammatical Trends	81	Literary Neologism	144	Traditional Grammar	204
2 The Origins of English	6	Prescriptivism	82	10 Etymology	146	Prescriptive Grammar	206
3 Old English	8	American English	84	Lexical History	146	The 21st-Century Legacy	208
Early Borrowings	8	Breaking the Rules	88	Semantic Change	148	The Main Branches of
Runes	9	Variety Awareness	90	Folk Etymology	149	Grammar	209
The Old English Corpus	10	Scientific Language	91	Place Names	150	14 The Structure of Words	210
Literary Texts	12	Literary Voices	92	Surnames	158	Morphology	210
The Anglo-Saxon		Dickens	93	First Names	160	Suffixation	210
Chronicle	14	Recent Trends	94	Nicknames	162	Adjectives	211
Spelling	16	Current Trends	96	Object Names	164	Nouns	212
Sounds	18	Linguistic Memes	97	Eponyms	165	The Apostrophe	215
Grammar	20	7 World English	98	11 The Structure of the		Pronouns	215
Vocabulary	22	The New World	98	Lexicon	166	Verbs	216
Late Borrowings	24	American Dialects	99	Semantic Structure	166	15 Word Classes	218
Dialects	28	Canada	101	Semantic Fields	167	Parts of Speech	218
4 Middle English	30	Black English Vernacular	102	Dictionary and Thesaurus	168	Traditional Definitions	218
French and English	30	Australia	104	Collocations	172	New Classes	219
The Transition From Old		New Zealand	105	Lexical Predictability	174	Nouns	220
English	32	South Africa	106	Idioms	175	Pronouns	222
The Middle English		South Asia	107	Synonyms	176	Adjectives	223
Corpus	34	West Africa	108	Antonyms	177	Adverbs	223
Literary Texts	36	East Africa	108	Hyponyms	178	Verbs	224
Chaucer	38	South-East Asia and the		Incompatibility	179	Prepositions	225
Spelling	40	South Pacific	110	Other Sense Relations	180	Conjunctions	225
Sounds	42	A World Language	112	12 Lexical Dimensions	182	Interjections	225
Grammar	44	Numbers of Speakers	114	Loaded Vocabulary	182	16 The Structure of
Vocabulary	46	Standard English	118	Taboo	184	Sentences	226
Latin borrowings	48	The Future of English	120	Swearing	185	Spoken and Written
Dialects	50	English Threatened and		Jargon	186	Syntax	226
Middle Scots	52	as Threat	122	Doublespeak	188	Types of Sentence	228
The Origins of Standard		Euro-Englishes	124	Political Correctness	189	Sentence Structure	229
English	54	PART II English Vocabulary	126	Catch Phrases	190	Sentence Functions	230
5 Early Modern English	56	8 The Nature of the		Vogue Words	191	Clause Elements	232
Caxton	56	Lexicon	128	Slogans	192	Clause Types	233
Transitional Texts	58	Lexemes	128	Graffiti	193	Phrases	234
Renaissance English	60	The Size of the English		Slang	194	Noun Phrases	234
The Inkhorn Controversy	61	Lexicon	129	Quotations	196	Verb Phrases	236
Shakespeare	62	Abbreviations	130	Proverbs	196	Multiple Sentences	238
The King James Bible	66	Proper Names	132	Archaisms	197	Multiple Structures	239
Spelling and Regularization	68	The Size of a Person's		Clichés	198	Abbreviation	240
Punctuation	70	Lexicon	133	Last Words	199	Disjuncts and Comment
Sounds	71	9 The Sources of the		PART III English Grammar	200	Clauses	241
Original Pronunciation	72	Lexicon	134	13 Grammatical		Reporting Speech	242
Grammar	74	Native Vocabulary	134	Mythology	202	Sentence Information	243
Vocabulary	76	Foreign Borrowings	136	The Nature of Grammar	202	Beyond the Sentence	244
The Academy Issue	77	Lexical Structure	138
Johnson	78

PART IV Spoken and Written English 24617 The Sound system 248

Phonetics and Phonology	248
Vocal organs	248
Vowels	249
Consonants	254
Syllables	258
Connected Speech	259
Prosody	260
Sound Symbolism	262
Pronunciation in Practice	266

18 The Writing System 268

Graphetics and Graphology	269
Typography	269
The Alphabet	270
Properties of Letters	277
Letter Frequency	277
Letter Distribution	278
Letter Symbolism	280
Analysing Handwriting	281
Graphetic Variety	282
Spelling	284
Sources of Irregularity	286
Spelling Reform	288
Punctuation	290
The Development of the Writing System	292
Punctuation Marks	294
The Punctuation Problem	296

PART V Using English 29819 Varieties of Discourse 300

Structure vs Use	300
Pragmatic Issues	300
Constructing a Discourse	301

Microlinguistic Studies	302
Pragmatics	304
Cognitive Approaches	306
Texts and Varieties	308
Speech and Writing	309
Mixed Medium	310
Monologue and Dialogue	312
Panchronicity	317

20 Regional Variation 318

Accent and Dialect International and Intranational	318
A Day in the Life of the Language	320
American and British English	326
American Dialects	332
British Dialects	338
Scotland	348
Wales	354
Ireland	356
Canada	360
Caribbean	364
Pidgins and Creoles	366
Australia	370
New Zealand	374
South Africa	376
New Englishes	378
Culture Talking	383

21 Social Variation 386

Sociolinguistic Perspective	386
Received Pronunciation	387
Prescriptive Attitudes	388
Gender	390
Occupation	394
Religion	395
Science	396
Law	398

Plain English	401
Politics	402
News Media	406
Journalism	408
Broadcasting	410
Weather Forecasting	411
Sports Commentary	412
Advertising	414
Restricted Varieties	416
New Fashions	418
New Technologies	419

22 Personal Variation 420

Individual Differences	420
Deviance	421
Word Games	422
Rule-Breaking Varieties	426
The Edges of Language	429
Jokes and Puns	430
Comic Alphabets	433
Variety Humour	436
Literary Freedom	438
Phonetics and Phonology	440
Graphetics and Graphology	442
Grammar and Lexicon	444
Discourse and Variety	446
Stylometry	449
Forensic Linguistics	450

23 Electronic Variation 452

Netspeak and its Properties	452
Lexical Distinctiveness	461
Graphetic Distinctiveness	462
Graphological Distinctiveness	463
Grammatical Distinctiveness	466
Discourse Distinctiveness	468

PART VI Learning About English 47624 Learning English as a Mother Tongue 478

Child Language Acquisition	478
Literacy	479
Grammatical Development	480
Early Words and Sounds	482
Reading and Writing	484
Insufficient Language	486
Language Disability	486

25 New Ways of Studying English 488

Technological Revolution	488
Corpus Studies	490
National and International Corpora	492
Dictionaries	498
Innovations	502
Sources and Resources	506

APPENDICES 507

I Glossary	508
II Special Symbols and Abbreviations	526
III References	528
IV New Addresses	534
V Further Reading	535
VI Index of Linguistic Items	540
VII Index of Authors and Personalities	544
VIII Index of Topics	549
Acknowledgements	569