

Contents

Preface and acknowledgments	page vii
List of tables	xv
1 Introduction	1
The question of the state	1
Capital, the state and space	2
A note on methodology	6
Requirements for a theory of the state	8
2 The problematic of the capitalist state	14
Analytical alternatives	15
Theories of the state in capitalism	18
Theories of the capitalist state	23
Synthesis and evaluation	33
3 The capitalist state apparatus	36
Form and function of the capitalist state	37
The capitalist state apparatus	45
A taxonomy of the state apparatus	48
The evolution of the state apparatus	55
4 State apparatus and everyday life	60
Statization of everyday life	60
Reproduction in the social formation	61
The social structuration of class relations	65
The spatial structuration of social relations	67
The statization of the psychiatric profession	70
Everyday life and psychiatric services	75
Synthesis	81

5	The language of the state	83
	The nature of political language	83
	Concepts in linguistic theory	84
	The structure of political language	87
	The language of the state	97
	Conclusions	102
6	Law and the state	104
	Interpreting law and society	106
	Law and the state	110
	Rights as contextual obligations	113
	Judicial apparatus and spatial integration	118
	Conclusions	128
7	The local state	131
	The local state and capitalism	132
	Legal autonomy of the local state	138
	Fiscal dependence and control	144
	Local self-determination	149
	Conclusions	152
8	Democracy and the crisis of legitimacy	153
	Democracy and capitalism	153
	Legitimacy in a decentralized democracy	157
	Taking American values seriously	160
	Spatial organization of the state	164
	Crisis of liberalism	168
9	Justice and the state	175
	Two arguments about radical transformation	176
	State autonomy reconsidered	178
	Normal and crisis politics	183
	State and society	188
	Conclusions	193
	Bibliography	195
	Author index	210
	Subject index	213