

Contents

Preface	vii
PART ONE Theoretical Studies in Marxist Aesthetics	1
1 Marxist Aesthetics and Stylistic Criticism	2
Marxist Aesthetics and Linguistic Approaches to Criticism	2
Content and Form in Marxist Criticism	4
Differences and Similarities Between Marxist Criticism and Stylistic Criticism	5
2 Commitment, Realism and Socialist Art	10
Views on Partisanship: from Marx to Mao	10
Marx and Engels on Realism	13
Georg Lukács on Realism	15
Socialist Realism	16
3 Literature, Society and Ideology	20
Art, Consciousness and Ideology	20
Literature and the Dominant Ideology of an Epoch	21
Literature, Nationalism and Revolutionary Consciousness	25
4 The Rise and Development of the Modern African Novel - A Marxist Viewpoint	30
Class, History and the African Novel	30
Creative Writers, Scholars and Political Ideologists	32
The African Writer and African Independence	34
The Role of Productive Forces - Conclusion	36
5 Ideology and Language in African Literature	39
The Language Situation in Africa	39
The Implications of Writing in European Languages - Ngugi's Position	40
European Languages and the Fight Against Cultural Imperialism	41
African Literature and the African Masses	46

PART TWO	Studies in the Art and Ideology of the African Novel	49
6	Ideology and Socialism in Three African Writers	50
	Introduction	50
	Ayi Kwei Armah and the Drive Against Neo-Colonialism	51
	David Maillu and the Plight of the Proletariat	55
	Ngugi and the Awakening of the Masses	59
7	The Development of Proletarian Consciousness:
	Ousmane's God's Bits of Wood	62
	Consciousness and Class Struggle	62
	Language and Readability	66
	Para-linguistic Affective Devices	69
	The Narrative Structure	71
	Characterization	72
	Conclusion	73
8	Towards a New Socialist Order: Ngugi's Petals of Blood	75
	Introduction to Theme	75
	Theme and Para-linguistic Affective Devices	76
	Characterization: Karega's 'New Earth' and Munira's 'Petals of Blood'	78
	Ngugi's Approach to Literary Composition	80
	Conclusion	84
9	The Price of Commitment: La Guma's In the Fog of the Seasons' End	86
	Theme	86
	Language, Character and Social Class	89
	Narrative Technique and the Articulation of Socialist Ideology	94
10	The Dilemma of a South African Liberal:
	Nadine Gordimer's The Late Bourgeois World	99
	The Dilemma of White Liberals	99
	Gordimer and Bourgeois Society	101
	Language and Narrative Structure	104
11	Ideology, Form and Social Vision in the African Novel: Overview and Conclusions	108
	Authorial and Aesthetic Ideology	108
	Liberalism and Realism – Nadine Gordimer	110
	Nationalism and Critical Realism – Chinua Achebe	110
	Radicalism, Metaphoric and Mythic Realism – Ayi Kwei Armah	112
	Socialist Art and the Socialist Vision – Ngugi, Ousmane and La Guma	116
	Bibliography	119
	Index	123