

TABLE OF CONTENTS

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

PREFACE	1
CHAPTER ONE HISTORY IN POETRY ON RECONSTRUCTING THE HOMERIC WORLD	5
1. Fact and fantasy : the fourth race	6
2. Tradition : old poems or the latest songs ?	10
(i) Compositional technique	12
(ii) Subject matter	13
(iii) Social function	14
3. The case of the Big Round Shield	17
4. History in poetry : points of method	22
CHAPTER TWO LIFE IN TOWN THE ORGANISATION OF HOUSEHOLD, COMMUNITY AND STATE	25
1. The hidden society : reconstructions and models	26
2. Buildings and people	28
3. Government : the princes and the people	31
4. Beyond the town	36
5. A hero's home	41
6. Friends : the men who come to dinner	44
7. The economy of the estate	49
8. Life in town : fact and fiction	53
CHAPTER THREE THE IMPORTANCE OF BEING ANGRY STATUS, PERSONAL POWER AND VIOLENCE	61
1. Explanations of violence	63
(i) The fragmentary society	63
(ii) The heroic impulse	66
(iii) The shame-culture	67
(iv) Assumptions and questions	68
2. The meaning of honour and excellence	69
3. Princes and bad men : ideals and exploitation	78
(i) Proper beatings	83
(ii) Unjust violence	85
(iii) Undeserved gifts	85
(iv) Fighting over plunder	87
4. Competition I : personal excellence	89

5. Competition II : power and wealth	101
6. Competition III : the struggle for respect	109
(i) The Benvolio -syndrome	110
(ii) The attraction of hybris	115
(iii) The bullying tendency	118
(iv) Questions of superiority	122
7. The ethics of anger	126
(i) The moral boundaries of anger	128
(ii) Pity	130
(iii) Reconciliation	131
(iv) Self-control	135
(v) The authorities	137
8. The might of men : strength, connections and justice	138
9. The importance of being angry : fact and fiction	153
 CHAPTER FOUR PILLAGE AND DESTRUCTION
PREDATORY AND STATUS WARFARE	167
1. Warriors at peace	168
2. Troy I : the insult that launched a thousand ships	172
3. Troy II : the ideal of annihilation	183
4. Private conflicts, brawls and wars	191
(i) The War of Men and Kentaurs	191
(ii) The War of Kouretes and Aitolians	192
(iii) The First Sack of Troy	193
(iv) The War of the Seven against Thebes	194
(v) The War of the Pyliaus and Epeiaus	195
5. Communities in competition : dangerous games	200
(i) Champion-combat : Trojans versus Akhaiaus	200
(ii) Games : the humiliation of communities	202
6. Predators	207
7. Booty and the Homeric economy	218
(i) Subsistence economy : autarky and fair exchange	219
(ii) Treasure economy : greed and generosity	222
(iii) Convertibility of goods	223
8. Gift-exchange : the hospitality-racket	228
9. Trade and plunder : profit and prestige	238
10. Pillage and destruction : fact and fiction	249
 CONCLUSION	261
(i) Homer	261
(ii) History	262
(iii) Violence	264

APPENDICES 267

Appendix One Towns And Townsfolk 269

1. The size of the population 269
2. Terms for towns and townsfolk 271

Appendix Two Princes And Sceptres 274

1. Princely families and their elders 274
2. Symbolic and procedural functions of the sceptre 276

Appendix Three Monarchs, Dynasties, Temenea 281

1. Kings versus Big Men 281
2. The royal estates 294

Appendix Four Booty : Prizes And Portions 299

1. The mechanism of distribution 299
2. The principles of distribution 304

NOTES 311

- Notes to Preface 313
Notes to Chapter One 314
Notes to Chapter Two 322
Notes to Chapter Three 345
Notes to Chapter Four 379
Notes to Appendix One 406
Notes to Appendix Two 407
Notes to Appendix Three 410
Notes to Appendix Four 413

BIBLIOGRAPHY 417

INDICES 441

- Subject index 443
Index of passages 451