

CONTENTS

Preface	7
Introduction
Kenwyn K. Smith and David N. Berg	11

SECTION I CLINICAL ISSUES

1. The Clinical Demands of Research Methods
David N. Berg and Kenwyn K. Smith	21
2. Taking Our Selves Seriously as Researchers
Clayton P. Alderfer	35
3. The Hermeneutic Turn and the Single Case Study in Psychoanalysis
Marshall Edelson	71
Commentary	105

SECTION II CLINICAL UNDERSTANDING

4. Action Usable Knowledge
Cortlandt Cammann	109
5. Epistemological Problems in Researching Human Relationships
Kenwyn K. Smith	123
6. Looking at Research Ideas as Behavioral Data
Stewart E. Perry	143
7. Feminist Distrust: Problems of Context and Content in Sociological Work
Shulamit Reinharz	153
8. What Is Clinical Method?
Rodney L. Lowman	173
Commentary	189

SECTION III
CLINICAL INVOLVEMENT

9. On Seeking One's Own Clinical Voice:
A Personal Account
J. Richard Hackman 193
10. Anxiety in Research Relationships
David N. Berg 213
11. Self-Full Research: Working Through the Self
as Instrument in Organizational Research
Philip H. Mirvis and Meryl Reis Louis 229
12. On the Researcher's Group Memberships
Kathy E. Kram 247
13. Virtuous Subjectivity:
In the Participant-Observer's I's
Alan Peshkin 267
- Commentary 283

SECTION IV
CLINICAL METHODS

14. Reconstructing an Organization's History:
Systematic Distortion in Retrospective Data
Valerie M. Simmons 287
15. History in the Here and Now:
The Development of a Historical Perspective
Jonathon H. Gillette 305
16. Using Participant Observation to Construct a Life History
Helen Swick Perry 319
17. On Studying Emotionally Hot Topics: Lessons
from an Investigation of Organizational Death
Robert I. Sutton and Susan J. Schurman 333
18. Assessing Local Causality in Qualitative Research
A. Michael Huberman and Matthew B. Miles 351
- Commentary 383
- References 385