

Contents

List of contributors	vii
Preface	ix
Part I Introduction
1. The new political geography of Eastern Europe John O'Loughlin and Herman van der Wusten	1
2. The transition to democracy Jiri Musil	9
Part II Geopolitical shifts
3. Breaking the Cold War mould in Europe: a geopolitical tale of gradual change and sharp snaps Jan Nijman and Herman van der Wusten	15
4. Precursor of crisis: political and economic relations of the Soviet Union, 1960–90 John O'Loughlin	31
5. Geopolitical transitions in agriculture: the changing role of American food policy in Eastern Europe, 1955–91 Janet E. Kodras	53
6. Post-Cold War security in the new Europe Simon Dalby	71
Part III Social and political transformations
7. Ethno-national aspirations in the Soviet Union and its successor regimes: juggling with options Petr Dostál	89
8. Pluralist mobilization as a catalyst for the dismemberment of Yugoslavia Snjezana Mrdjen	115
9. Gypsies in Czechoslovakia: demographic developments and policy perspectives Kveta Kalibova, Tomas Haisman and Jitka Gjuricova	133
10. The stolen revolution: minorities in Romania after Ceausescu Leo Paul	145

11. Environmental politics, democracy and economic restructuring in Bulgaria 167
John Pickles and the Bourgas Group

Part IV New electoral geographies

12. The electoral geography of the former Soviet Union, 1989–91: 189 retrospective comparisons and theoretical issues
Vladimir Kolosov
13. Democratic elections and political restructuring in Poland, 1989–91 217
Joanna Regulska
14. Czechoslovak parliamentary elections 1990: old patterns, 235
new trends and lots of surprises
Petr Jehlicka, Tomás Kostecky and Ludek Sykora
15. The political geography of Hungarian parliamentary 255 elections, 1989
Zoltán Kovacs
- Index 274