

Contents

|  |     |
|--|-----|
| HARALD HUSEMANNAs others helped us . . . . .   | x   |
| RICHARD FALCONImages of Germany and the Germans in British filmand television fictions . . . . .   | 7   |
| PETER DOYE/MICHAEL BYRAMImages of Britain in German textbooks for teaching English . . . . .   | 29  |
| K. PETER FRITZSCHECan textbooks be without prejudices? . . . . .   | 41  |
| GERD ROHMANNImages of Germany in 20th-century English literature . . . . .   | 47  |
| JOEP LEERSSENAs others see, among others, us:The Anglo-German relationship in context . . . . .  | 69  |
| EMER O'SULLIVANNational stereotypes as literary device. Traditions and uses ofstereotypes of Germans in British and the English inGerman children's literature . . . . . | 81  |
| DAVID HEAD"Made in Germany": the British perspective as revealedby advertising . . . . .   | 99  |
| LACHLAN R. MOYLEThe Ridley-Chequers affair and German characterA journalistic main event . . . . .   | 107 |
| GÜNTHER HEYDEMANNPartner or rival? The British perception of Germany duringthe process of unification 1989-1991 . . . . .  | 123 |
| WILLIAM BAYNES"As we see each other".Summary of the press correspondents seminar . . . . .   | 149 |