

Contents

---

	Preface	page vii
	List of Contributors	ix
	Introduction James Farr, John S. Dryzek, and Stephen T. Leonard	I
1	The Declination of the “State” and the Origins of American Pluralism John G. Gunnell	19
2	An Ambivalent Alliance: Political Science and American Democracy Terence Ball	41
3	The Pedagogical Purposes of a Political Science Stephen T. Leonard	66
4	“Public Opinion” in Modern Political Science J. A. W. Gunn	99
5	Disciplining Darwin: Biology in the History of Political Science John S. Dryzek and David Schlosberg	123
6	Race and Political Science: The Dual Traditions of Race Relations Politics and African-American Politics Hanes Walton Jr., Cheryl M. Miller, and Joseph P. McCormick II	145
7	Realism and the Academic Study of International Relations Jack Donnelly	175
8	Remembering the Revolution: Behavioralism in American Political Science James Farr	198
9	Policy Analysis and Public Life: The Restoration of Phronēsis ? Douglas Torgerson	225
10	The Development of the Spatial Theory of Elections John Ferejohn	253

vi      Contents

11	Studying Institutions: Some Lessons from the Rational Choice Approach Kenneth A. Shepsle	276
12	Order and Time in Institutional Study: A Brief for the Historical Approach Karen Orren and Stephen Skowronek	296
	Bibliography	318
	Index	357