

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Page

Acknowledgements	viii
INTRODUCTION	1
Background to the research	1
Research methods and volume overview	3
Summary	3
PART I Historical sources: a new theory concerning Polybius' source
CHAPTER 1 Polybius' description of a Roman army camp	5
PART II Some comment on the dating and chronology of the Spanish archaeological evidence
CHAPTER 2 The dating evidence and the chronology of Roman Republican army camps in Hispania	21
PART III A re-evaluation of the archaeological remains of the Roman Republican military camps in Spain
CHAPTER 3 Camps I-III at Renieblas	31
Camp I	31
Camp II	33
Camp III	37
CHAPTER 3a The south-east annexe of Camp III Renieblas	77
CHAPTER 4 The siege-camps surrounding Numantia	79
Castillejo.....	81
PeñaRedonda.....	92
CHAPTER 5 Camps IV and V at Renieblas	117
CampIV.....	117
CampV.....	117
CHAPTER 6 The legionary base at Cáceres el Viejo	131
PART IV Final discussion and some comparison with the castrametation of the Empire
CHAPTER 7 The transition from maniple to cohort in the Roman Republican legion	135
CHAPTER 8 Republican camp types and functions	139
CHAPTER 9 Planning elements of the legionary camp	145
CHAPTER 10 Barracks and stables: type, size and constituent elements	149
CHAPTER 11 Concluding remarks	155
APPENDIX
The Loeb translation of Polybius' Book VI Chapters 19-42. (The Roman Military System).....	157
REFERENCES
Abbreviations	165
Ancient authors	165
Bibliography	166

LIST OF FIGURES

CHAPTER 1	Page
1.1 Suggested mobilisation-camp for a single consular army of two legions	6
1.2 Suggested mobilisation-camp for a double consular army of four legions	7
1.3 Suggested marching- or war-camp for a single consular army of two legions	8
1.4 The Roman camp according to Polybius showing the legions in relation to the praetorium	15
1.5 Order of the layout of the encampment flags in a marching-camp according to Polybius	17
 CHAPTER 2
2.1 Location of the principal sites in Hispania mentioned in the text	22
 CHAPTER 3
3.1 The location of Numantia and the major Roman camps nearby in the modern topography	30
3.2 Camps I and II at Renieblas	32
3.3 Camp I Renieblas (Ground survey)	34
3.4. Camp I Renieblas (Tacheometric survey)	35
3.5 Camp III Renieblas (the remains)	36
3.6 Camp III Renieblas (Schulten's interpretation)	38
3.7 Plan of the remains in the north-eastern part of Camp III Renieblas	40
3.8 Detail of how surveyor's lines may have been set out with a groma at Camp III	42
3.9 Identification of rows of barracks with troop types	44
3.10 Barrack Rows K and A at Camp III Renieblas	46
3.11 Scheme for a barrack of the equites Romani	48
3.12 Scheme for a barrack of the triarii	50
3.13 Barrack Rows B and C at Camp III Renieblas	54
3.14 Scheme for a barrack of the principes or the hastati	55
3.15 Detail of the head of Barrack 1, Row B at Camp III Renieblas	56
3.16 Barrack Row D at Camp III Renieblas	60
3.17 Scheme for a barrack of the equites Sociorum	62
3.18 Barrack Row E and building complexes G and H at Camp III Renieblas	64
3.19 A possible barrack for a cohors amicorum at Camp III Renieblas	67
3.20 Possible tribunes' houses at Camp III Renieblas	68
 CHAPTER 3a
3a.1 The south-east annexe of Camp III at Renieblas	76
 CHAPTER 4
4.1 The Scipionic camps, riverside forts and siege-works surrounding Numantia	80
4.2. Plan of the remains of Castillejo (Camp 3)	82
4.3. Schulten's restored plan of Castillejo Camp 3	83
4.4 Plan of the remains of Barrack 18; Castillejo Camp 3	86
4.5 Scheme for a cavalry barrack	87
4.6 Plan of the remains of Barracks 1-10; Castillejo Camp 3	88
4.7 Restored plan of the remains of the barracks of the legionary infantry at Castillejo Camp 3	89
4.8 Scheme for an infantry maniple-barrack and Hyginus' scheme for the tents of a maniple	91
4.9 Plan of the remains at Peña Redonda	93
4.10 The layout of Peña Redonda according to Schulten's Polybian scheme	94
4.11 Detail of the barracks north of the praetorium at Peña Redonda	96
4.12 The barracks south of the praetorium at Peña Redonda showing Schulten's interpretation	100
4.13 The barracks south of the praetorium at Peña Redonda showing the remains only	101
4.14 Plan of Barracks 14-19 south of the praetorium based on Schulten's interpretation	103
4.15 Proposed new arrangement for Barracks A and B south of the praetorium	104
4.16 Schematic representation of the barracks south of the praetorium at Peña Redonda showing a possible alternative arrangement	106
4.17 Plan of the remains of barrack buildings at Molino	108
4.18 Plan of a suspected barrack at Saledilla	109

LIST OF FIGURES CONT.

CHAPTER 5	Page
5.1 The outer walls of Camps IV and V at Renieblas	116
5.2 Schulten's restored plan of Camp V at Renieblas	117
5.3 Detail of Schulten's restored plan of the barracks in the eastern part of Camp V.....	120
5.4 Detail of the plan of the remains only in the north-eastern part of Camp V	122
5.5 Detail of Schulten's restored plan of the barracks in the north-eastern part of Camp V	123
5.6 Plan of Camps IV and V at Renieblas showing the Abschlußmauer	124
5.7 Plan of Buildings A/B/D and F: proposed new interpretation of the remains	126
5.8 Plan of Buildings B/C/E and G: proposed new interpretation of the remains	128
 CHAPTER 6
6.1 Plan of the legionary base of Cáceres el Viejo	132
 CHAPTER 8
8.1 The geographical and strategic location of the legionary base at Cáceres el Viejo	142
 CHAPTER 10
10.1 Barrack A from Camp V Renieblas and a barrack from a fort at Echzell in Germany for comparison.....	150
 APPENDIX
App.1 The Roman camp according to Polybius	160

LIST OF TABLES

CHAPTER 2
2.1. Schulten's chronology and dating of the major Roman Republican camps in Hispania	21
2.2 The dating of Camps III and V at Renieblas and the siege-camps around Numantia on the basis of the numismatic evidence (after Hildebrandt)	26
2.3 A partial chronology and suggested date-ranges for some of the Roman Republican camps in Spain	28