

CONTENTS

List of maps	x
List of plates	xi
Preface	xii
Abbreviations	xiv

Introduction

1 The polis and its politai	1
A cautionary tale	1
Polis: city? state?	6
Locating the politai	11

Part one: The central thesis

2 The pattern of settlement of classical Attika	15
The literary evidence	15
The archaeological evidence	22
The making of a settlement pattern	37
The size and wealth of the demes	42
3 The pattern of land-holding in classical Attika	47
The literary sources	47
The epigraphic sources	50
A view of the whole patchwork	60
4 Demes and democracy: local politics and the politics of locality	64
Who ran the polis? Modern fallacies and ancient practice	64
Demos and demoi : the polis as demes	72
Who ran the demes? The personnel of local politics	83
Demos and demokratia : formal and informal mediation of power	88

Part two: Supporting studies

5	Athenian stone resources and their exploitation	93
	The physical remains	93
	The use of stone in buildings	97
	The siting of quarries and the movement of building stone	101
	The organisation of the building-stone industry	103
	Quarries as local social forces	108
6	Patterns of exploitation in the Athenian silver mines	111
	The economic importance of the Laurion mines	111
	Who owns and who leases what, where and why?	112
	The distribution of rewards	115
	The local distribution of owners and lessees	118
	Mineral extraction and social disruption	124
7	Kinsmen and neighbours, choosing and using	127
	Did local links play any part in the formation of kinship ties?	127
	The use of kinsmen and the use of neighbours	138
	Progressive deracination or stable equilibrium?	151
8	The religious factor: confirmation or alternative?	154
	Artemis Brauronia	154
	The Mysteries of politics	172
	The cult of the deme	178
	The location of cult	181

Conclusion

9	The replacement of Athens	183
---	---------------------------	-----

Appendices

A	Isolated farms in classical and hellenistic Attika	190
B	Remains of nucleated settlement in Attika	192

Tables

1	Probable age structure of the population of classical Athens	196
---	--	-----

2 (a) The local distribution of propertied families	196
(b) The distribution of wealth by tribe and trittys	201
3 Attic leases	204
4 The hekatostai inscriptions	205
5 The horoi	205
6 The subject matter of deme decrees down to the end of the fourth century	206
7 Known individuals in local and central political activity	206
8 Property ownership in the mining leases	206
9 Men leasing mines	207
10 Property owners in the mining demes	208
Plates	209
Notes	216
Bibliography of works cited in abbreviated form	253
Index of passages cited	268
General index	279