

CONTENTS

Illustrations	x i
Acknowledgements	x iii
Introduction	xv ii
Prologue: The Shock of the Shell	i
1: Doctors' Minds	5
2: Shell-Shock in France	21
3: Trench Work	33
4: The Somme	39
5: Psychiatry at the Front, 1917–18	53
6: Home Fires	73
7: Europeans	97
8: Arguments and Enigmas, 1917–18	109
9: 'Skirting the Edges of Hell'	123
10: Inquests	133
11: 'Will Peace Bring Peace?'	143
12: The Lessons of Shell-Shock	161
13: Dunkirk, the Blitz and the Blue	169
14: 'We Can Save those Boys from Horror'	187
15: Front-line Psychiatry	205
16: New Ways of War	229
17: D-Day and After	247
18: A Tale of Two Hospitals	257
19: The Helmeted Airman	279
20: Learning from the Germans?	299

21:	Prisoners of War	313
22:	A Good War?	325
23:	Vietnam Doctors	339
24:	From Post-Vietnam Syndrome to Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder	355
25:	'When the Patient Reports Atrocities . . .'	369
26:	From the Falklands to the Gulf	377
27:	The Culture of Trauma	385
	Notes	401
	Select Bibliography	469
	Index	475