

Table of Contents

Introduction

I. The Export of Islamic Economic Doctrine	1
A. The Historiographic Challenge	1
B. Islam and Christian Europe's Economic Transformation	4
II. Analytic Methodology.....	10

Part I: The Christian Decline

Chapter 1: Medieval Christian Europe in Stasis	13
1.1. What Did Destroy the Entrepreneurial Spirit of Gaul?	13
A. Socioeconomic Factors	14
B. The Church	16
1.2. The Political Consequences of this Socioeconomic Transformation	35

Part II: The Islamic Ascendancy

Chapter 2: The Muslims' Medieval "Trade Explosion"	41
2.1. The Industrial Underpinnings of Early Arab Commerce	41
2.2. The Evolution of Islamic Commerce	51
A. Arab Trade Expansion in the Age of the Orthodox Caliphs	51
(i) The Locus of Early Islamic Trade	51
(ii) The Dynamics of Early Islamic Trade	54
B. The Umayyads and the Northward Shift of Muslim Trade ..	58
C. The ^o Abbāsīd Apogee of Trade	65
(i) Baghdad: the Concourse of Global Commerce	65
(ii) The Direction and Dispersion of ^o Abbāsīd Trade	71
2.3. The Fāṭimid Eclipse of the ^o Abbāsīds	76
Chapter 3: Islamic "Free Market" Doctrine Pragmatically Applied	81
3.1. Private Profit and the Desire for Capital Augmentation	82
A. Private Property Ownership and the Quest for Personal Gain	82

B. The Role of “Profit Motive” in the Quest for Personal Gain	83
C. The Role of “Price Sensitivity” in Optimizing Profit	87
3.2. The “Business Tools” of Corporate Capitalism	89
A. Issues of Interest and Credit	89
B. Corporate Mechanisms for Capital Commitment	92
C. Commercial Partnerships and Corporations	97
D. Banking and Attendant Fiducial Instruments	109
 Chapter 4: The Fruition of “Commercial Capitalism” in Fāṭimid Egypt	115
4.1. The Fāṭimid Conquest of Egypt	115
4.2. The Fāṭimids’ “Nilocentric” Macroeconomic Setting	120
4.3. The Perfection of “Commercial Capitalism” in Fāṭimid Egypt .	127
A. Private Profit Motive and the Quest for Capital Gain	127
(1) The Possession of Private Property	128
(2) The Pursuit of Private Profit	131
(3) The Quest for Quality Capital	136
B. Effective Corporate Mechanisms for Investing Private Capital	144
C. The “Fiducial Tools” of Commercial Capitalism	151
 Part III: Islam and the Christian Revival
Chapter 5: Imperatives of Trade and the Transformation of Europe	161
5.1. The 5 th /11 th Century European Economic Revival	161
5.2. Henri Pirenne and the European “East-West” Trade Debate ...	164
5.3. Evidence of What Early Medieval “East-West” Trade Likely Really Was	178
5.4. The Structural Dimensions of Fāṭimid-European Commerce ..	191
5.5. The Impact of the Crusades Upon Italian-Muslim Commerce .	199
A. European Exports to the Levant	199
B. Levantine Exports to Europe	203
C. Western Business Development within the Levant	205
D. Western “Business Tool” Development in the Levant	207
E. Resulting Economic Impacts Upon Christian Europe	209
 Chapter 6: Medieval Europe’s Transformation: “The Triumph Of Ideas”	211
6.1. Western Commerce Transformed By Eastern Business Practice	211
6.2. The Transmission of Commercial Terminology	216
6.3. The Transmission of “Free Market” Business Ideologies	221
6.4. The Transmission of New “Monetary Models”	227
6.5. The Transmission of New Forms of Business Association	235

6.6. The Transmission of New Business “Tools of Trade”	248
6.7. The Arabo-Italian “Commercial Revolution” in Retrospect	255

Epilogue

Epilogue: Islam and Medieval Europe’s Economic Recrudescence	259
--	-----

Appendices

A. Early Medieval Muslim Perceptions of the European West	265
B. The Dispersion Of Islamic Global Trade	273
1. Trade with India and the Orient	274
2. Trade with Northwest Eurasia	278
3. Trade with Byzantium and the West	286
C. Trade Routes Leading to the Ḥijāz at the Dawn of Islam	289
1. Medieval Muslim Transpeninsular Trade	289
2. Medieval Muslim Trade Routes to Africa	293
D. The Islamic Doctrine of “Private Gain” in the Free Market	297
E. The Early Evolutions of the “ Mudārabah ” and “ Mukhāṭarah ” Contracts	301
F. Principal Trade Routes of the Rādhānite Jews	305
G. A Compendium of Major Early Islamic Naval Engagements	307
H. Imperatives of Trade and the Transformation of Europe	315
I. Reflections on the Derivation and Use of the “Mancus”	319
J. The Echoes of “Islamic Exegesis” in Early Christian Protestant Reformist Thought	321

Sources

Source Analysis	337
I. Medieval Islamic Economic Doctrinal Literature	337
II. Medieval European Economic History.....	340

Bibliography	343
Key to Abbreviations Used in Bibliography	343
I. Medieval Near East Primary Sources.....	343
II. Medieval Non-Muslim Primary Sources.....	349
III. Modern Near East Secondary Sources	351
IV. Modern Western Secondary Sources	361
General Index	377