

Daniel Stein • Lisanna Wiele
Editors

†
Nineteenth-Century
Serial Narrative in Transnational Perspective,
1830s–1860s

Popular Culture—Serial Culture

palgrave
macmillan

CONTENTS

1	Introducing Popular Culture—Serial Culture: Serial Narrative in Transnational Perspective, 1830s–1860s	1
	Daniel Stein and Lisanna Wiele
Part I	The Transnational Spread of the Feuilleton Novel	17
2	The Beginnings of the Feuilleton Novel in France and the German-Speaking Regions	19
	Norbert Bachleitner
3	Spectacular, Spectacular: Early Paris Mysteries and Dramas	49
	Walburga Hülk
4	The Interaction between Serial Fictions and Nonfictional Texts in the Kölnische Zeitung in the 1850s and 1860s	65
	Fabian Grumbrecht
5	Brazilian–French Cultural Contact in a Serial Format: The Revista Popular (Rio de Janeiro, 1859–1862)	81
	Ricarda Musser

6	A Distant Reading of the Ottoman/Turkish Serial Novel Tradition (1831–1908) Reyhan Tutumlu and Ali Serdar	95
Part II The Antebellum Literary Market: Authors, Publishers, Institutions		115
7	Between Hamburg and Boston: Frederick Gleason and the Rise of Serial Fiction in the United States Ronald J. Zboray and Mary Saracino Zboray	117
8	The Serial Character of Abolition: Charting Transatlantic and Gendered Critiques of Slavery in The Liberty Bell Pia Wiegink	145
9	Ride with Capitola: E.D.E.N. Southworth's The Hidden Hand as a "Loud Text" in Serial Antebellum Culture Gunter Süß	161
10	Counting (on) Crime in De Quincey and Poe: Seriality, Crime Statistics, and the Emergence of a Mass Literary Market Nicola Glaubitz	175
Part III The City Mystery Novel in England and the United States		191
11	Serial Culture in the Nineteenth Century: G.W.M. Reynolds, the Many Mysteries of London, and the Spread of Print Mark W. Turner	193
12	The Media Mysteries of London Tanja Weber	213

- 13 Of Ladies, Fruit Girls, and Brothel Madams: Womanhood and Female Sexuality in American City Mystery Novels 231
Heike Steinhoff
- 14 Dead Man Walking: On the Physical and Geographical Manifestations of Sociopolitical Narratives in George Thompson's *City Crimes—or Life in New York and Boston 247
Lisanna Wiele
- 15 Henry Boernstein, Radical, and The Mysteries of St. Louis as a Political Novel 271
Matthias Göritz
- 16 Slavery as Racial Dis/order in Antebellum America: The Case of the City Mystery Novel 287
Daniel Stein
- 17 (Re-)Making American Culture: The Crystal Palace and the Transnational Series and Adaptations of Antebellum New York City 311
Florian Groß
- Index 329