

Contents

Figures	Plates Section between pages 164–5
A Note on Translations and References	xii
Introduction: Origins	1
PART I. SOURCES AND REFLECTIONS: THE HYPNEROTOMACHIA POLIPHILI (1499) AND SIDNEY'S NEW ARCADIA (1582–1584)
1. 'Some Fair Book': The Hypnerotomachia Poliphili in England	41
2. Reading Fountains in the Hypnerotomachia	53
3. The Fountains of Venus and Adonis: Revelation and Reflection	69
4. The Fountain of Aeneas: Sidney Rewrites the Hypnerotomachia	85
PART II. LIVING WATERS: SPENSER'S THE FAERIE QUEENE (1590)
5. Ad Fontes : Elizabeth and the English Bible	103
6. The Christian Knight: Redcrosse Learns to Read	122
7. The Well of Life: All Things Made New	144
8. Fountains Seen and Unseen	169
PART III. POISONED SPRINGS: JONSON'S THE FOUNTAINE OF SELFE-LOVE (1600)
9. The Public Fountain: Elizabethan Politics and the Humanist Tradition	197
10. A Visual Metaphor: Staging the Fountain	218
11. The Fountain of Salmacis: Self-Love and Satire	234
12. Diana's Justice: Essex, Nonsuch, and Hampton Court	255
Conclusion	279
Bibliography	287
Index	319