

---

Contents

---

Preface	ix
1 Introduction: Writing in the Late Age of Print	1
The late age of print	1
The future of print	4
The old and the new in digital writing	7
Refashioning the voice of the text	10
Refashioning the writing space	12
2 Writing as Technology	14
Writing technologies and material culture	17
Economies of writing	21
3 Hypertext and the Remediation of Print	27
Word processing and topical writing	29
Hypertext	32
Writing as construction	36
Global hypertext	38
Hypertext as remediation	40
The old and the new in hypertext	44

4	The Breakout of the Visual	47
	The image and the printed page	49
	Visual metaphors	52
	Ekphrasis	56
	Picture writing	59
	Electronic picture writing	61
	The electronic page	66
5	The Electronic Book	77
	The changing idea of the book	77
	Great books	81
	Encyclopedic order	83
	The electronic encyclopedia	87
	The library as a writing space	91
6	Refashioned Dialogues	99
	The reading path	99
	From dialogue to essay to Web page	104
	The end of the line?	107
	The hypertextual essay?	111
	Educational dialogue	113
	Multiple dialogues	117
7	Interactive Fiction	121
	“afternoon”	124
	The rhetoric of the multilinear	128
	Displacement and repetition in “Victory Garden”	130
	Disrupting the linear	137

The tradition of experiment	138
Sterne and the novel as conversation	140
James Joyce as hypertext	142
Borges and exhaustion in print	145
Composition No. 1	148
Multiple reading and writing	150
Digital poetry and performative texts	153
Hypermedia: popular and avant-garde	155
8 Critical Theory in a New Writing Space	161
Writing technologies and the literary critical tradition	162
The end of authority	165
Hypertext and poststructuralism	170
Reader response and the architecture of hypertext	171
Electronic signs	176
Deconstruction and electronic writing	179
New convergences and popular forms	183
Looking at and looking through	184
The practice of theory	186
9 Writing the Self	189
Writing as analysis	190
Writing the Cartesian mind	193
Hypertext and the Cartesian ego	196
Electronic writing and the postmodern self	197
The materiality of the electronic self	200
10 Writing Culture	203
The network culture	203

x CONTENTS

---

Cultural unity	205
The remediation of culture	208
1 1 The Web Site	214
References	215
Index	225