

TABLE OF CONTENTS

	Acknowledgments	vii
	About the Contributors	ix
	Introduction Scott B. Montgomery	1
I	Quia venerabile corpus redicti martyris ibi repositum: Image and Relic in the Decorative Program of San Miniato al Monte, Florence Scott B. Montgomery	7
II	Images and Relics in Fourteenth-Century Arezzo: Pietro Lorenzetti's Pieve Polyptych and the Shrine of St. Donatus Giovanni Freni	27
III	Galganus and the Cistercians: Relics, Reliquaries, and the Image of a Saint Francesca Geens	55
IV	Simone Martini's Beato Agostino Novello Altarpiece and Reliquary Altar: Sienese Program and Augustinian Agenda Margaret Flansburg	77
V	When an Image is a Relic: The St. Zenobius Panel from Florence Cathedral Sally J. Cornelison	95
VI	Imaging St. Margaret: Imitatio Christi and Imitatio Mariae in the Vanni Altarpiece Leanne Kay Gilbertson	115
VII	Lambs, Coral, Teeth, and the Intimate Intersection of Religion and Magic in Renaissance Tuscany Jacqueline Marie Musacchio	139
VIII	Who Was the Audience for St. Luke's Cult in Padua? Andrea Kann	157

---

IX	Relics and Identity at the Convent of San Zaccaria in Renaissance Venice Gary M. Radke	173
X	Image and Relic in the Cult of Our Lady of Prato Robert Maniura	193
XI	Up in Arms: The Knights of Rhodes, the Cult of Relics, and the Chapel of St. John the Baptist in Siena Cathedral Timothy B. Smith	213
	Afterword Joanna Cannon	239
	Bibliography	247