

Table of Contents

Twenty-five authors on twelve languages, sixteen language varieties, and eighteen hundred and eighty-eight speakers Frans Hinskens	1
Phrasal Verbs in Venetan and Regional Italian Paola Benincà & Cecilia Poletto	9
Regional variation in intonation. Nuclear rising-falling contours in Cologne German Pia Bergmann	23
Internal and external factors for clitic-shape variation in North-Eastern Catalan Elisenda Campmany	37
The native / non-native speaker distinction and the diversity of linguistic profiles of young people in Swedish multilingual urban contexts Kari Fraurud & Sally Boyd	53
Language acquisition in a multilingual society: a case study in Veneto, Italy Anna Ghimenton & Jean-Pierre Chevrot	71
Regional accent in the German language area. How dialectally do German police answer emergency calls? Roland Kehrein	83
Sustainable Linguicism Miklós Kontra	97
Phonetic variation in Tyneside: exploratory multivariate analysis of the Newcastle Electronic Corpus of Tyneside English Hermann Moisl, Warren Maguire & Will Allen	127
Production and judgment in childhood: the case of liaison in French Aurélie Nardy & Stéphanie Barbu	143
Stereotypes and /n/ variation in Patra, Greece: results from a pilot study Panayiotis A. Pappas	153
Modelling linguistic change. The past and the present of the future in Brazilian Portuguese Shana Poplack & Elisabete Malvar	169
The role of linguistic factors in the process of second dialect acquisition Kathy Rys & Dries Bonte	201

Folk views on linguistic variation and identities in the Belarusian-Russian borderland Marián Sloboda	217
Polarisation revisited Johan Taeldeman	233
Ethnicity as a source of changes in the London vowel system Eivind Torgersen, Paul Kerswill & Susan Fox	249
Levelling, koineization and their implications for bidialectism Stavroula Tsiplakou, Andreas Papapavlou, Pavlos Pavlou & Marianna Katsoyannou	265
Subject index	277