

Contents

List of Illustrations	viii
Preface and Acknowledgements	xv
Abbreviations	xvi
Introduction: France and its Wars, 1494–1559	1
1 ‘One World is Not Enough’: Kings, Ministers and Decisions on Policy and Strategy in Renaissance France	15
Dynastic war and personal rivalry	15
French diplomacy and justifications for war	19
Contemporary writers on the causes of war	21
Starting wars	26
The Italian wars, 1494	27
The war with the Emperor, 1521	30
The war of 1536	33
The war of 1551–2	37
2 The High Command, Planning and the Army as a Whole	42
Kings and generals: the High Command	42
Planning for war	53
Numbers of troops	62
3 Cavalry and the Nobility at War	67
The Royal Guards	68
The compagnies d’ordonnance	70
Light horse	86
War and the noble mentality	88
4 The Birth of the French Infantry	95
The reputation of foot soldiers	95
The francs-archers	102
The quest for a permanent infantry	105
The legions	112
Recruitment of gens de pied	117
Command of the infantry	119
5 Foreign Mercenaries in the Service of the King of France	124
The need for foreign troops	124
The Swiss	125

	The Germans: Lansquenets	131
	The Germans: Reiters	143
	The Italians	146
6	The Artillery Revolution, Fortifications and Siege Warfare	152
	Artillery	152
	Fortification of the frontier	157
	Zones of fortification	161
	Personnel: architects and technicians	179
	Building operations and financing fortifications	183
7	The Field of Battle	187
	The evidence: the memoirists describe war	187
	The military manual	190
	Keeping order: discipline	197
	Deployment: giving battle, ensigns, cries and speeches	199
	New tactics: the fortified camp; battle-field artillery	203
	The conventions of siege warfare	205
	The aftermath: casualties	209
8	'The Sinews of War': Military Administration and Finance	212
	The cost of war	212
	Officialdom, financial and military	220
	The Ordinaire des guerres	222
	The Extraordinaire des guerres	223
	Officials and their social status	225
	Controlling fraud: payment and muster	227
9	The Impact of War: Supply, Garrisons, Logistics and the Problem of Disorder	236
	The bonnes villes , garrisons and military supply	236
	Armies on campaign: new systems of supply	242
	Destruction, problems of discipline and the impact of disorder	248
10	War, Propaganda, History and Public Opinion	255
	News reporting and public opinion	258
	War propaganda and taxation	267
	Ceremony and commemoration	271
	Public opinion and narratives of war: ' la matière historique '	274
	Scholars and contemporary history	280
11	War and Renaissance Culture: Music and the Visual Arts	285
	Les bruits de la guerre	285
	Music and the art of war	288
	War and the visual arts	296

12 War, Renaissance Culture and the Literary World	307
War, ideas and public opinion	307
War and the literary world	309
Propaganda and the literary milieu	311
Major poets and war	313
Poetry and politics	315
War in popular verse	319
Literature and satire: sotties , farces and contes	322
Conclusions: War in French public opinion	328
Conclusion: ‘Until It Fill the Whole World?’	332
Appendices	335
Bibliography	369
Index	397