

Introduction . . . . .	ix
List of Abbreviations. . . . .	xi
I. THE EPITOME OF FLORUS AND THE SECOND CENTURY A.D.	1
II. AURELIUS VICTOR I . . . . .	19
Caligula as an Example of Victor's independent treat- ment of his material . . . . .	31
Trajan. . . . .	35
Compositional problems . . . . .	43
Septimus Severus . . . . .	43
Didius Julianus . . . . .	44
III. AURELIUS VICTOR II. . . . .	54
Comparisons and Examples. . . . .	54
Nero . . . . .	58
Hadrian . . . . .	60
Caracalla. . . . .	62
Philippus Arabs. . . . .	70
Gallienus. . . . .	75
The consecration of Gallienus . . . . .	79
Possible Influence of Tacitus . . . . .	83
Historical Reliability . . . . .	85
Diocletian . . . . .	87
Senate and Emperor. . . . .	87
The decline of a civilisation. . . . .	93
The outlook of a civil servant. . . . .	98
Sickness and death . . . . .	101
The connection between Victor's de Caes. and the Epitome . . . . .	109
Appendix . . . . .	111
IV. EUTROPIUS . . . . .	114
Eutropius the Man . . . . .	114
Sources . . . . .	116

Topography . . . . .	120
Chronology . . . . .	124
Ut qui plurimum minimumque tradunt . . . . .	135
Note . . . . .	137
Personal Experience . . . . .	137
Rome and the Barbarians . . . . .	141
Senate and Emperor . . . . .	150
Consecratio . . . . .	152
The Emperor during his Lifetime . . . . .	158
Economic Problems . . . . .	164
Christianity . . . . .	167
Appendix . . . . .	170
V. FESTUS . . . . .	173
The Breviarium . . . . .	173
The author's task defined . . . . .	176
Festus the man . . . . .	178
The enumeratio . . . . .	183
Sources . . . . .	187
Historians and their ambitions . . . . .	188
Festus and Ammianus Marcellinus . . . . .	190
A. Cyprus . . . . .	190
B. Cilicia and Isauria . . . . .	191
C. Syria and Palestine . . . . .	192
D. Thrace . . . . .	192
E. Egypt near Cyrene . . . . .	193
Note . . . . .	196
The Legacy of Cyrene . . . . .	196
The Provincial List . . . . .	197
Character and Content . . . . .	199
Gallienus and Dacia . . . . .	201
Conquests . . . . .	203
Rome and the East . . . . .	204
The immediate past . . . . .	211
The unpredictable factor . . . . .	215
Structure and Terminology . . . . .	219
Conclusion . . . . .	222
Select Bibliography . . . . .	224

Indexes .. . . . .	231
A. Geographical names . . . . .	231
B. Personal names . . . . .	232
C. Ancient authors . . . . .	237
D. Modern authors. . . . .	241