

Contents

---

Preface

The Texts of Walden and "Civil Disobedience"

|                                                                                                    |     |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Walden                                                                                      | 1   |
| A Textual Note on Walden                                                                    | 222 |
| "Civil Disobedience"                                                                               | 224 |
| A Textual Note on "Civil Disobedience"                                                             | 244 |
| Background: From Thoreau's Journal                                                          | 247 |
| Reviews and Essays in Criticism                                                                    |     |
| Daniel Ricketson • [Letter to Thoreau]                                                             | 257 |
| A. P. Peabody • Critical Notice                                                                    | 261 |
| Charles Frederick Briggs • A Yankee Diogenes                                                       | 261 |
| George Eliot • [An Early British Review]                                                           | 265 |
| Ralph Waldo Emerson • Thoreau                                                                      | 266 |
| James Russell Lowell • Thoreau                                                                     | 281 |
| Van Wyck Brooks • Thoreau                                                                          | 293 |
| F. O. Matthiessen • Walden : Craftsmanship vs.Technique                                 | 305 |
| Stanley Edgar Hyman • Henry Thoreau in Our Time                                                    | 314 |
| Joseph Wood Krutch • Paradise Found                                                                | 327 |
| Sherman Paul • Resolution at Walden                                                                | 336 |
| E. B. White • Walden                                                                        | 348 |
| R. W. B. Lewis • [One Kind of Adam]                                                                | 356 |
| George Hendrick • The Influence of Thoreau's "CivilDisobedience" on Gandhi's Satyagraha | 364 |
| J. Lyndon Shanley • The Successive Versions of Walden                                       | 372 |
| Wright Morris • To the Woods                                                                       | 384 |
| Perry Miller • Thoreau in the Context of InternationalRomanticism                              | 390 |
| Theodore Baird • Corn Grows in the Night                                                           | 400 |
| Richard Drinnon • Thoreau's Politics of the UprightMan                                         | 410 |
| Bibliography                                                                                       | 423 |