

Contents

Editors biography	xi
Authors biography	xiii
Foreword	xxiii

Part One Introduction 1

1 Introduction	3
Karen Lucas, Karel Martens, Floridea Di Ciommo and Ariane Dupont-Kieffer
1 Introduction to the book	3
2 Discussion of different concepts of equity and its measurement	4
3 Equity, fairness, and justice	7
4 Outline of contents	8
2 Measuring transport equity: Key components, framings and metrics	13
Karel Martens, Jeroen Bastiaanssen and Karen Lucas
1 Introduction and overview of the issues	13
2 Selection and specification of the indicators of benefits and burdens	14
3 Distinguishing and defining population groups (disaggregation)	23
4 Selection and specification of equity principles	29
5 Policy relevance	33
6 Further reading	34
References	35

Part Two Benefits of transport: Accessibility 37

3 An index to measure accessibility poverty risk	39
Karel Martens and Jeroen Bastiaanssen
1 Introduction	39
2 Methodology	39
3 Introduction to the Rotterdam—The Hague case	44
4 Analysis	46
5 Policy relevance	53
6 Further reading	54
Acknowledgments	55
References	55

4	Using person-based accessibility measures to assess the equity of transport systems	57
	Koos Fransen and Steven Farber
1	Introduction	57
2	Methodology	59
3	Application	63
4	Policy relevance	67
5	Further reading	69
	References	71
5	Equity analysis of dynamic bike-and-ride accessibility in the Netherlands	73
	John P. Pritchard, Marcin Stepniak and Karst T. Geurs
1	Introduction	73
2	Methodology	74
3	Application	76
4	Policy relevance	80
5	Further reading	81
	Acknowledgments	82
	References	82
6	Can the urban poor reach their jobs? Evaluating equity effects of relocation and public transport projects in Ahmedabad, India	85
	Mark Brussel, Mark Zuidgeest, Frans van den Bosch, Talat Munshi and Martin van Maarseveen
1	Introduction	85
2	Ahmedabad	86
3	Methodology	89
4	Results	97
5	Policy relevance	104
6	Further reading	106
	Acknowledgments	107
	References	107
7	Transport equity in low-income societies: Affordability impact on destination accessibility measures	111
	Imuentinyan Aivinhenyo and Mark Zuidgeest
1	Introduction	111
2	Methodology	112
3	Application	116
4	Policy relevance	125
5	Further reading	127
	References	128

Part Three	Burdens of transport: Health, environment and other externalities	129
8	The health impacts of urban transport: Linkages, tools and research needs	131
	Haneen Khreis and Mark J. Nieuwenhuijsen
1	Introduction	131
2	Framing a Health Impact Assessment	132
3	The Health Impact Assessment	136
4	Policy relevance	140
5	Further reading	140
	References	142
9	Assessing health inequalities related to urban and transport determinants of mental health	143
	Giulia Melis, Matteo Tabasso, Morena Stroschia and Giuseppe Costa
1	Introduction	143
2	Methodology	144
3	Case study application	150
4	Policy relevance	155
5	Further reading	156
	References	157
10	A public health approach to assessing road safety equity—The RoSE cycle	159
	Adrian Davis and Paul Pilkington
1	Introduction	159
2	Methodology	162
3	Application: Bristol 2006–2016	165
4	Policy relevance	168
5	Further reading	169
	References	170
11	Distribution of transportation “goods” and “bads” in a Canadian metropolis: A diagnosis of the situation and potential interventions to tackle environmental disparities	171
	Mathieu Carrier and Philippe Apparicio
1	Introduction	171
2	Objectives	172
3	Methodology	173
4	Variations in the transportation and the global indexes in the study area	177
5	Policy relevance	181
6	Further reading	185
	Acknowledgments	185
	References	186

12	Safety and daily mobilities of urban women—Methodologies to confront the policy of “invisibility”	187
	Tanu Priya Uteng, Yamini Jain Singh and Tiffany Lam
1	Introduction	187
2	Background	188
3	Methods to measure and plan for women’s safety in urban public spaces	190
4	Policy relevance	199
5	Further reading	200
	Acknowledgments	201
	References	201
Part Four Social outcomes from transport interventions		203
13	Applying a subjective well-being lens to transport equity	205
	Louise Reardon, Lucy Mahoney and Wenbo Guo
1	Introduction	205
2	Methodology	207
3	Application	209
4	Policy relevance	212
5	Further reading	214
	References	214
14	Social impact assessment: The case of bus rapid transit in the City of Quito, Ecuador	217
	Alvaro Guzman Jaramillo, Ian Philips and Karen Lucas
1	Introduction	217
2	Approach	218
3	Application of the method	220
4	Policy relevance	227
5	Further reading	228
	References	229
15	Measuring the influence of social capital and personal networks on transport disadvantage	231
	Juan Antonio Carrasco and Karen Lucas
1	Introduction	231
2	Methodology: A mixed methods approach	231
3	Case study: Barriers in Concepción, Chile	235
4	Policy relevance	244
5	Further reading	245
	Acknowledgments	245
	References	245

16	Using a capability approach-based survey for reducing equity gaps in transport appraisal: Application in Santiago de Chile	247
	Beatriz Mella Lira
1	Introduction	247
2	Methodology: A capability-based quantitative sampling	251
3	Application of the measurement	257
4	Policy relevance	258
5	Further reading	263
	References	264
17	A behavioral framework for needs-based transport assessment	265
	Flordea Di Ciommo, Francesc Magrinyà, Gianni Rondinella and Yoram Shiftan
1	Introduction	265
2	Methodology: The needs-satisfaction approach	266
3	The case-study implementation in the Barcelona Metropolitan Area	268
4	Policy relevance	273
5	Further reading	274
	References	274
18	Assessing the equity impacts of a transportation investment program	277
	Alex Karner and Aaron Golub
1	Introduction	277
2	The United States context: Civil rights, environmental justice, and regional planning	278
3	Approach and methodology	279
4	Application	281
5	Policy relevance	288
6	Further reading	289
	Acknowledgments	290
	References	290
	Part Five Closure	291
19	Conclusions	293
	Karen Lucas and Karel Martens
	Further reading	296
	References	296
	Index	297