

Contents

---

PROLOGUE

The Iliad's Two Wars	1
The Proem	1
When Achilles Disappears: A Reading of Book 2	3
The Death of Lykaon	8

INTRODUCTION

Characterization and Distribution	12
Character-Space: Between Person and Form	12
Characterization and the Antinomies of Theory	14
"‘They Too Should Have a Case’"	21
Two Kinds of Minorness	24
Function and Alienation: The Labor Theory of Character	26
Realism, Democracy, and Inequality	30
Austen, Dickens, Balzac: Character-Space in the Nineteenth-Century Novel	32
The Minor Character: Between Story and Discourse	37

CHAPTER ONE

Narrative Asymmetry in Pride and Prejudice	43
Minor Characters in a Narrative Structure	43
The Double Meaning of Character	50
The One vs. the Many	56
Asymmetry: From Discourse to Story	62
Characterizing Minorness 1: Compression	68
The Space of the Protagonist 1: Elizabeth's Consciousness	77
Characterizing Minorness 2: Externality	82
Helpers: Charlotte Lucas and the Actantial Theory	88
The Space of the Protagonist 2: Elizabeth's Self-Consciousness	97
Wickham: "How He Lived I Know Not"	103
Minor Minor Characters: Representing Multiplicity	116

CHAPTER TWO

Making More of Minor Characters	125
Distorted Characters and the Weak Protagonist	125
Between Jingle and Joe: Asymmetry and Misalignment in The Pickwick Papers	133
Seeing into Sight: Mr. Elton and Uriah Heep	143

Partial Visibility and Incomplete Vision: The Appearance of Minor Characters	149
Repetition and Eccentricity: Minor Characters and the Division of Labor	155
“Monotonous Emphasis”: Minorness and Three Kinds of Repetition	167
CHAPTER THREE
Partings Welded Together: The Character-System in Great Expectations	177
Between Two Roaring Worlds: Exteriority and Characterization	177
The Structure of Childhood Experience	188
Interpreting the Character-System: Signification, Position, Structure	194
Metaphor, Metonymy, and Characterization	198
Getting to London	207
Three Narrative Workers and the Dispersion of Labor in Great Expectations	213
Wemmick as Helper (the Functional Minor Character)	214
Magwitch’s Return (the Marginal Minor Character)	217
Orlick and Social Multiplicity (the Fragmented Minor Character)	224
The Double: A Narrative Condition?	238
CHAPTER FOUR
A qui la place?: Characterization and Competition in Le Père Goriot and La Comédie humaine	244
Typification and Multiplicity	244
The Problem: Who Is the Hero?	244
Character, Type, Crowd	246
Balzac’s Double Vision	255
The Character-System in Le Père Goriot	260
La belle loi de soi pour soi	260
Goriot: The Interior as Exterior	265
Rastignac: The Exterior as Interior	267
Between the Exterior and the Interior	272
Interiority and Centrality in Le Père Goriot and King Lear	282
The Shrapnel of Le Père Goriot	288
Recurring Characters, Le Père Goriot , and the Origins of La Comédie humaine	288
The Social Representation of Death: Le Père Goriot and Le Cousin Pons	295
Cogs in the Machine: Les Poiret between Le Père Goriot and Les Employés	303
Competition and Character in Les Employés	308

CONTENTS	ix
AFTERWORD
Sophocles's Oedipus Rex and the Prehistory of the Protagonist	319
Notes	337
Works Cited	375
Acknowledgments	383
Index	385