

Contents

Introduction: The Concept and Context of Historicism	1
1. An intellectual revolution	1
2. History as a science	6
3. Historicism and Enlightenment	10
4. The problem of historical knowledge	14
5. Social and historical context	19
6. The crisis of historicism?	23
1. Chladenius and the New Science of History	27
1. The German Vico	27
2. Foundations of hermeneutics	30
3. Motives for a new science	40
4. The concept of history	43
5. Perspectivalism	47
6. Explanation of action	54
7. Against historical Pyrrhonism	58
2. Justus Möser and the Roots of Historicism	63
1. Möser and the historicist tradition	63
2. Early education	67
3. A young Aufklärer ?	73
4. Moral theory	78
5. Opposition to the Enlightenment	83
6. Osnabrückische Geschichte	86
7. Allegiance to natural law	92
3. Herder's Historicism, its Genesis and Development	98
1. Herder and the historicist tradition	98
2. Anthropology and history	101
3. Aesthetics and history	106
4. A crisis of conscience	110
5. Methods and problems of writing history	114
6. The origins of language	120
7. The hermit and his cell	127
8. Another philosophy of history	132
9. Back to the sunlight	142

10. Ideas for a Philosophy of History: Parts I and II	148
11. Ideas for a Philosophy of History: Parts III and IV	160
4. Humboldt the Proteus	167
1. The Bacon of history	167
2. Early philosophy of history	170
3. Humboldt's concept of individuality: fons et origo	175
4. Ambivalence about natural law	179
5. Neo-classicism and hermeneutics	183
6. Aims and methods of anthropology	187
7. The spirit of the age	190
8. The unrepentent classicist	195
9. Philosophy of language	199
10. The task of the historian	207
5. Savigny and the Historical School of Law	214
1. Savigny and the natural law tradition	214
2. The young romantic	218
3. Early critique of Kant	224
4. First lectures	227
5. The codification controversy: legal and political issues	233
6. The codification controversy: philosophical issues	243
7. Mature legal theory	246
6. Ranke's Romantic Philosophy	253
1. Reputation and influence	253
2. The autonomy of history	256
3. David versus Goliath	261
4. History as art	266
5. A romantic epistemology	270
6. Historical objectivity	274
7. Historical explanation	279
8. Ranke's "irrationalism"	284
7. The Historics of Johann Gustav Droysen	289
1. The Kant of history	289
2. Historics	292
3. The method of understanding	297
4. The question of objectivity	303
5. Critique of the critical school	307
6. Nature and history	312
7. The problem of value	317

8. Dilthey and the Foundations of the Human Sciences	322
1. The critique of historical reason	322
2. The concept of the Geisteswissenschaften	325
3. The master science	331
4. The fate of psychology	337
5. Early psychology	342
6. The concept of Verstehen	346
7. A philosophy of life	354
8. The problem of relativism	358
9. Wilhelm Windelband and the Forces of History	365
1. Historicism and neo-Kantianism	365
2. A conflicted youth	368
3. The crisis of philosophy	373
4. Clash with Dilthey	377
5. The logic of history	380
6. Resisting historicism	385
7. Accommodating historicism	390
10. Rickert and the Philosophy of Value	393
1. Reputation and influence	393
2. Problem and agenda	395
3. Cultural and natural science	399
4. The limits of naturalism	405
5. Historical objectivity	410
6. The theory of value	414
7. Strategies against dualism	418
8. The third realm	422
9. Battling voluntarism and pragmatism	425
10. Defending intellectual autonomy	429
11. Critique of Dilthey's historicism	431
12. Rickert's Kantianism	436
13. Final appraisal	439
11. Emil Lask and the End of Southwestern Neo-Kantianism	442
1. A tragic loss	442
2. Hiatus irrationalis	445
3. Legal theory	449
4. Dispute with Rickert	452
5. Logic of philosophy	455
6. Theory of judgment	461

12. Simmel's Early Historicism	468
1. Simmel and the historicist tradition	468
2. Beginnings in Völkerpsychologie	472
3. First foundations of sociology	479
4. An idealist philosophy of history	485
5. Laws of history	492
6. Reappraising the philosophy of history	496
7. An early pragmatist	499
8. Critique of ethics	502
13. Max Weber and the End of the Historicist Tradition	511
1. Weber in context	511
2. Weber's intentions	516
3. Methodenstreit	521
4. Defining the cultural sciences	528
5. Critique of intuitionism	535
6. The limits of naturalism	539
7. Ideal types	544
8. The value of value-freedom	550
9. Arguments for value-freedom	557
10. Objectivity and relativism	562
Bibliography	568
Index	595