

Studies in Classical Archaeology III

Reception of Classical Art, an Introduction

Edited by Donna Kurtz

BAR International Series 1295
2004

Reception of Classical Art, an Introduction

Editorial Preface	1
1. The study of art at Oxford before 1955	3
Slade Professors of Fine Art Lincoln Professors of Classical Archaeology and Art Professors of European Archaeology Professors of the Archaeology of the Roman Empire Professors of the History of Art
2. An introduction to the reception of classical art	31
Donna Kurtz, Beazley Archivist and Professor of Classical Art Figures 1 -37
3. Nudity in art	47
John Boardman, Lincoln Professor of Classical Archaeology and Art, Emeritus Figures 38-63
4. Medals and the reception of antiquity	55
Henry Kim, Curator of Greek and Modern Medals, Heberden Coin Room, Ashmolean Museum Figures 64-114
5. Renaissance istoriato maiolica	65
Kate Nichols, Beazley Archive Figures 115-122
6. The reception of classical art - neoclassical gems	73
Gertrud Seidmann, Institute of Archaeology Figures 123-145
7. The Sackler Library: ancient and modern	85
Robert Adam, Architect of the Sackler Library Figures 146 - 159	