

CONTENTS

PREFACE	vii
1. THE BRICK-WALL MOMENT: WHAT IS THIS POEM ABOUT?	1
2. POUND IN THE METRO: IMAGE AND STORY	12
Image and story 12—Two meetings 16—Pound in the Metro 19—Pope's hidden metaphors 24 —Misreading 29—High Windows 36
3. WHO IS THE EMPEROR OF ICE-CREAM?: THE HABIT OF RIDDLING	42
What is it? 42—Who is the Emperor of Ice-Cream? 48 —Missing the obvious 54—Double entendres 58 —Fingers in the sandcastle 64—What happens to the Ball Turret Gunner? 68—What is the Sphinx? 71
4. 'I CAUGHT A TREMENDOUS FISH': SHOULD WE TRUST THE POET?	80
Clues: Bishop's fish 80—Dreams: do we believe the poet? 85—How may we know truth? Ouija poems 89— How do we know if it means anything? 99 —Interlude: mere obscurity 105—The elusive allusion: borrowing and stealing 108—Darkling 115 —Mistakes 119

5. WHERE HAVE WE SEEN THEM BEFORE?: BORROWED CHARACTERS 130

Tennyson's Mariana 130—Auden's Merlin 136—Lowell's
Aeneas 143

6. THE TROUBLE WITH TITLES 156

The titles of titles 156—The title that isn't a title 164—
The ambiguous title: Arnold and the dinner service 171—Coleridge's mysterious prison 178—Against nature poetry: 'Conversion' 185—Getting the title wrong:
The Waste Land 191

7. WHO IS OZYMANDIAS?: WHAT'S IN A NAME? 197

Who is Ozymandias? 197—What is the Snark? 202
—Who is Crazy Jane? 207—Who is Pipit? 212—Who is Badroulbador? 219—Who is 'you'? 225

CONCLUSION: THE POEM IN THE HANDS OF THE READER 234

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS 241

INDEX 243