

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
Preface	xi
Introduction: The Caribbean Critical Imperative	i

I. Tropical Equality: The Politics of Principle

1	Foundations of Caribbean Critique: From Jacobinism to Black Jacobinism	29
2	Victor Schoelcher, Tocqueville, and the Abolition of Slavery	66
3	Aimé Césaire and the Logic of Decolonization	86
4	‘Stepping Outside the Magic Circle’: The Critical Thought of Maryse Condé	118
5	Édouard Glissant: From the Destitution of the Political to Antillean Ultra-leftism	133

II. Critique of Caribbean Violence

6	Jacobinism, Black Jacobinism, and the Foundations of Political Violence	159
7	The Baron de Vastey and the Contradictions of Scribal Critique	173
8	Revolutionary Inhumanism: Fanon’s On Violence	192
9	Aristide and the Politics of Democratization	216

III. The Critique of Relation

10	Édouard Glissant: From the Poétique de la relation to the Transcendental Analytic of Relation	231
11	Césaire and Sartre: Totalization, Relation, Responsibility	251
12	Militant Universality: Absolutely Postcolonial	262
	Conclusion: The Incandescent I, Destroyer of Worlds	271
	Appendix: Letter of Jean-François, Belair, and Biassou/ Toussaint, July 1792	288
	Notes	292
	Bibliography	324
	Index	339