

Contents

A

.....

Acknowledgments vii

1. INTRODUCTION 1

The Relevance of Settings 1

What Is Fantasy? 4

2. MAPS 14

Previous Explorations of Fantasy Maps 15

What Is a Fantasy Map? 19

A Survey of Fantasy Maps 22

Reading Fantasy Maps 43

3. BORDERS AND BOUNDARIES 68

Together Apart: Borders in Brust, Gaiman and Vess, and Nix 70

The Geography of History:

Polders in Tolkien, Holdstock, and Pratchett 99

4. NATURE AND CULTURE 129

Two Slippery Terms 130

The Return of the Tree: Bringing Nature Back into Minas Tirith 135

Nature, Magic, and Misfits: Wilderness within Newford 141

Blurred Boundaries: Conflux in New Crobuzon 154

Growing Somewhere In-Between: Liminal Nature in Ombria 166

5. REALMS AND RULERS 177

Linking Rulers to Realms: An Overview 178

Ruling the Mythical Landscape: The Fisher King in Last Call 183

Shaping the Realm: Palimpsests in Tourists 190

Where Dark Lords Live:

Landscapes of Evil in Tolkien, Donaldson, and Jordan 194

6. SOME FINAL THOUGHTS 216

Appendix A: Method for the Map Survey 221

Appendix B: Map Sample 225

Notes 233

Bibliography 263

Index 277