

Contents

Introduction: Research on PISA, with PISA, and for PISA	xiii
Manfred Prenzel
Part I Content Related Research
Introduction: Content Related Research on PISA	2
Werner Blum
1 Implications of PISA Outcomes for Science
Curriculum Reform in the Netherlands	7
Harrie M.C. Eijkelhof, Johanna H. Kordes, and Elwin R. Savelsbergh
2 Using Mathematical Competencies to Predict
Item Difficulty in PISA: A MEG Study	23
Ross Turner, John Dossey, Werner Blum, and Mogens Niss
3 PISA Mathematics in Germany: Extending the Conceptual
Framework to Enable a More Differentiated Assessment	39
Michael Neubrand
Part II Methodological Research
Introduction: Methodological Research
in Large-Scale International Assessments.....	52
Mark Wilson
4 Modeling Reciprocal Determinism in PISA	57
Trevor Williams and Kitty Williams
5 The Measurement of Translation Error in PISA-2006 Items:
An Application of the Theory of Test Translation Error	71
Guillermo Solano-Flores, Luis Ángel Contreras-Niño, and Eduardo Backhoff

6	PISA Student Nonresponse Adjustment Procedures	87
	Keith Rust, Sheila Krawchuk, and Christian Monseur
7	Reporting Differentiated Literacy Results in PISA by Using Multidimensional Adaptive Testing	103
	Andreas Frey, Nicki-Nils Seitz, and Ulf Kröhne
Part III Context Related Research
	Introduction: Context Related Research on PISA	122
	Eckhard Klieme
8	More Hours Do Not Necessarily Pay Off. The Effect of Learning Time on Student Performance at Different School Types in Switzerland	129
	Domenico Angelone and Urs Moser
9	The Anatomy of Inequalities in Educational Achievements: An International Investigation Using PISA Data	145
	Tarek Mostafa
Part IV Research on Trends in PISA
	Introduction: What Are Trends and Why Are They Important for PISA?	160
	Matthias von Davier
10	An Investigation of Australian OECD PISA Trend Results	165
	Daniel Urbach
11	Success Despite the Odds? Outcomes for Low-Performing Students in Australia	181
	Sue Thomson and Kylie Hillman
12	Linking PISA Competencies over Three Cycles – Results from Germany	199
	Claus H. Carstensen
	About the Authors	215