

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
Introduction	1
1 The Role of Rhetoric and Communication in Genocide	9
2 State Killings as Public Argument	21
3 Discursive Complexity as a Communication-Based Moral and Ethical Framework	31
4 The Cell Phone versus the AK-47	39
5 The Genocidaire: The Perpetrator	45
6 Christianity as a Critical Methodology for Moral Action	53
7 Islam and the Rhetorical Construct of Islamophobia	65
8 Global Anti-Semitism: The Persistent Genocidal Trope	77
9 James Farmer: A Model for Human Freedom	87
10 Gendercide: Sex Selection Abortion	97
11 Giving War a Chance: Critical Theory and Genocide	103
12 Winning Wars against Genocide	119
13 Conclusion: A World without Genocide	131
Appendix: Student Essay: Shia Islam: The Wave of Sectarian Warfare in the Muslim World	141
By Basma Raza, undergraduate communication student and debater
Bibliography	149

Index

159

About the Author

163