

Table of Contents

Acknowledgments	vi
Introduction: Science Fiction and Fantasy Conquer the World ACE G. PILKINGTON	1
One Destination, Many Journeys: Jules Verne's Center of the Earth on Screen BRIAN TAVES	13
From Selenite Suicide to Bonestell Backdrops: Robert A. Heinlein on the Course to Destination Moon RAFEEQ O. MCGIVERON	28
Forbidden Planet: Aliens, Monsters and Fictions of Nuclear Disaster ACE G. PILKINGTON	43
A Daughter, a Mother and a Mirror: "Snow White" and Hollywood KATE WOLFORD	60
Updating Form, Content and Culture: The Strange Case of Three 2012 Snow White Films LUIS GUADAÑO	70
"Look, you fools, you're in danger!" Cultural Snapshots in Four Iterations of Invasion of the Body Snatchers KELLEY CROWLEY	85
Damn Dirty Dames: Dissecting Difference in Planet of the Apes DEAN CONRAD and LYNNE MAGOWAN	101
The Amplification and Avoidance of Homosexual Love in the Translation of Tolkien's Work from Books to Films ROGER KAUFMAN	117

Media and Hyperreality in the Film Adaptations of the Suzanne Collins' Hunger Games Trilogy MOLLIE GAGNON	133
The Russian Literary Tradition Goes Hollywood: Night Watch, Day Watch and Substitution of Narrative Experientiality OLGA A. PILKINGTON	145
From (Pseudo)encyclopedic Fiction to America's First Superhero: Abraham Lincoln: Vampire Hunter NILS BOTHMANN	161
From Screen to Shining Screen: The Wizard of Oz in the Age of Mechanical Reproduction ANNAH E. MACKENZIE	175
Ancient Myths, Modern Movie: Harry Potter in Our Minds and on the Screen CATHY LEOGRANDE	192
Racebending: Race, Adaptation and the Films I, Robot and I Am Legend WILLIAM HART	207
Conclusion: Adaptation or Translation? MATTHEW WILHELM KAPELL	223
About the Contributors	231
Index	235