

Contents

Acknowledgements	viii
Introduction: Instruments of Change	1
1 The Private and the Communal – Degrees of Separation	13
Part A
Introduction: Cosmomorphic Fracture: ‘For every man alone thinks that he hath got / To be a Phoenix’	37
2 ‘That Dark Sun’: Donne and Melancholic Individuality	41
3 King Lear and the Death of the World	57
Part B
Introduction: Collective Representations, Symbolic Narratives	83
4 Readerly Isolation and Subjective Freedom in The Faerie Queene	87
5 Hobbes and Bunyan: The Subsuming Individual Vision	113
Part C
Introduction: Refiguring Community, Thinking through Festivity	137
6 Taking Sights in Richard II – 1 Henry IV	143
7 A Reconstitution of Community: ‘Nature’s’ Dismantling and Replacement in The Winter’s Tale	163
Notes	183
Bibliography	221
Index	233