

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
Introduction: The Generic Turn? Toward a Poetics of Genre in the Contemporary Novel Tim Lanzendörfer	1
I: Genre at the End of Postmodernism
1 Aliens in America: Toni Morrison, Steven Spielberg, and the Ends of Postmodernism Philipp Löffler	17
2 The Digital Intensification of Postmodern Poetics Lai-Tze Fan	35
3 The Black Box of Genre in Colson Whitehead's The Intuitionist and Charles Yu's How to Live Safely in a Science Fictional Universe Stephen Hock	57
4 Self-Parody and the Aesthetics of Literary Transgression in John Hawkes's An Irish Eye and Thomas Pynchon's Inherent Vice Salwa Karoui-Elounelli	73
5 Sincerity, Sharing, and Authorial Discourses on the Fiction/ Nonfiction Distinction: The Case of Dave Eggers's You Shall Know Our Velocity Virginia Pignagnoli	97

II: Between High and Low, Literary and Popular

- 6 Techno-Anxiety as New Middlebrow: Science-Fictionalizing in the Fictional Mainstream of the Early Twenty-First Century 115
Roger Bellin
- 7 Post-Apocalypse Now: Cormac McCarthy's The Road as Post-Apocalyptic Science Fiction 127
Yonatan Englender and Elana Gomel
- 8 Ghostly Presences: Nostalgia, the Literary Market, and the Cultural Work of Genre in Stephen King's Joyland 145
Clemens Spahr
- 9 Postmodern Autonomy and the Poetics of Genre in Matt Ruff's Novels 161
Annette Schimmelpfennig and Tim Lanzendörfer
- 10 Purposing the Familiar: Genre, Repetition, and Anxiety in Bret Easton Ellis's Lunar Park 181
Gavin F. Hurley

III: Revisiting Traditional Genre(s)

- 11 The Heirs of Don Quixote: Representations of the World-Shaping Powers of Genre in Contemporary Fiction 201
Martina Allen
- 12 Reimagining Genre in the Contemporary Immigrant Novel 219
Katie Daily-Bruckner
- 13 Looking Beneath the Surface: Self and Genre in Joseph O'Neill's Netherland 237
Tim DeJong
- 14 Connecting Travel Writing, Bildungsroman, and Therapeutic Culture in Dave Eggers's Literature 255
Robert Mousseau

- Bibliography 271
- Index 285
- About the Contributors 289