

CONTENTS

1	Introduction	1
	Part I 'Give Us the Stuff Just the Same': The Dominions and British War Finance	29
2	Britain Financing the War	31
3	The Dominions and British Financial Relations	39
4	Canadian Dollars	47
5	South African Gold	63
6	The Pacific Dominions and Sterling	77
	Conclusion	87

Part II ‘Only the Air Force Can Win It’: The British Commonwealth Air Training Schemes	91
7 British Air Strategy and the Dominions	97
8 The Dominions Incorporated	107
9 National Identity and the RAF	123
10 On the Fringes: South Africa and Air Training	135
Conclusion	143
Part III ‘We Are a Maritime Commonwealth’: The Dominions and British Maritime Power, 1939–1945	149
11 British Naval Strategy and the War at Sea	153
12 North Atlantic Convoys: Canada’s Special Role	175
13 Shipping on the Cape Route: South Africa’s Unexpected Triumph	183
Conclusion	197

Part IV ‘Marched and Fought with the Desert Army’: The Dominions in North Africa, 1940–1942	201
14 The War in the Desert	205
15 The Dominions in the Desert	219
16 The Alliance in the Desert	237
17 A Curious Absence? Canada and the Desert War	251
Conclusion	263
18 Conclusion	265
Appendix 1: Combined British Air Training	279
Appendix 2: Percentage Analyses of Commonwealth Air Training	281
Manuscripts	283
Bibliography	295
Index	311