

Contents

Part I	Some Theoretical Foundations: Why European Treaties Are Theoretically Wrong	1
1	Government Expenditure, Inflation and Growth: The Base Model	9
2	Economic Policy, Government Investment Programmes, Inflation and Growth	31
3	Government Investment Programmes in the Open-Economy Case	83
4	“The” Optimal Growth Path for the Economy and Optimal Discount Rates for Investment Decisions	121
5	Allocation of Time, Human Capital and Endogenous Growth	159

6	Earnings and Human Capital in a Deterministic Life-Cycle Model Towards a Spring-Savings Behaviour	177
7	Taxation, Income Distribution and Optimal Programmes to Finance Higher Education	225
8	Income Distribution, Equity and Growth	251
Part II	Some Empirical Evidence: Why European Treaties Are Empirically a Negative-Sum Game	271
9	The Cost of the Super Euro: 2002–2014	293
10	A New Maastricht Treaty?	385
11	What Would Have Happened in Europe if Mario Draghi Had Not Been There?	425
	Bibliography for Part I	443
	Index	449