

Contents

Acknowledgments vii

Prologue 1

Introduction: Situating Feminist Rhetorical Science Studies 18

Amanda K. Booher and Julie Jung

1. Of Complexity and Caution: Feminism, Object-Oriented
Ontology, and the Practices of Scholarly Work 50

Kyle P. Vealey and Alex Layne

2. Flat Ontologies and Everyday Feminisms: Revisiting
Personhood and Fetal Ultrasound Imaging 84

Jen Talbot

3. “The Inconvenience of Meeting You”: Rereading
Non/Compliance, Enabling Care 114

Catherine Gouge

4. Mattering Gender: Technical Communication and Human Materiality 141

Jennifer Bay

5. How Good Brain Science Gets That Way: Reclaiming the Scientific Study of Sexed and Gendered Brains 164

Jordynn Jack

6. Representing without Representation: A Feminist New Materialist Exploration of Federal Pharmaceutical Policy 183

Daniel J. Card, Molly M. Kessler, and S. Scott Graham

7. Embodied Vernacularity at the FDA: Feminism,
Epistemic Authority, and Biomedical Activism 205

Liz Barr

8. Becoming-Thinking Otherwise, Rhetorically 227

Amanda K. Booher and Julie Jung

Contributors 249

Index 251