

Acre and Its Falls

Studies in the History of a Crusader City

Edited by

John France

BRILL

LEIDEN | BOSTON

Contents

List of Figures XI

Notes on Contributors XII

Introduction 1

John France

- 1 The Capture of Acre, 1104, and the Importance of Sea Power in the Conquest of the Littoral 13
Susan B. Edgington
- 2 Clausewitz's Wounded Lion: a Fighting Retreat at the Siege of Acre, November 1190 30
John D. Hosler
- 3 Martyrs for the Faith: Denmark, the Third Crusade and the Fall of Acre in 1191 49
Janus Møller Jensen
- 4 New Evidence for Identifying the Site of the Teutonic Compound in Acre 69
Adrian J. Boas and Georg Philipp Melloni
- 5 John of Antioch and the Perceptions of Language and Translation in Thirteenth-Century Acre 90
J. Rubin
- 6 Did the Templars Lose the Holy Land? The Military Orders and the Defense of Acre, 1291 105
Paul F. Crawford
- 7 The Fall of Acre, 1291, and Its Effect on Cyprus 116
Anne Gilmour-Bryson
- 8 The Fall of Acre in 1291 in the Court of Medieval Public Opinion 130
Charles W. Connell

- 9 Thadeus of Naples on the Fall of Acre 148
Iris Shagrir
- 10 The Fall of Acre (1291): Considerations of Annalists in Genoa, Pisa, and Venice (13th/14th–16th Centuries) 166
Marie-Luise Favreau-Lilie
- Bibliography 183
- Index 207