

Contents

	Preface	xix
1	TOWARD AMERICA
1	Origins	5
	The World of the Shtetl	7
	Ferment and Enlightenment	15
	The Start of Social Change	20
	The Prospect of America	24
2	Departure and Arrival	26
	Crossing into Europe	29
	The Lure of America	34
	From Border to Port	36
	The Ordeal of Steerage	39
	At Ellis Island	42
	A Work of Goodness	46
	"Hordes" of Aliens	50
	Open Door—and Closed	53
	The Jews Who Came	57
2	THE EAST SIDE
3	The Early Years, 1881–1900	67
	The First Shock	69
	"A Gray, Stone World"	71
	A New Tempo, a New Way	74
	Peddling and Sewing	77
	Going to the Land	84
	In the Tenements	86

	The Implacability of Gentleness	90
	A Chaos in Hebrew	94
	Dislocation and Pathology	96
	Voices of the Left	101
	What Migration Meant	115
4	Disorder and Early Progress		119
	An Early Combat	123
	New Tastes, New Styles	127
	Spreading Across the City	130
	An Experiment in Community	133
	The Failure of the Banks	135
	Beginnings of a Bourgeoisie	137
	What the Census Shows	141
	A Slow Improvement	144
5	Slum and Shop		148
	Working in the Shops	154
	Rising in the World	159
	Ways to Make a Living	163
6	The Way They Lived Then		169
	At the Heart of the Family	171
	Boarders, Desertions, Generational Conflict	177
	The Inner World of the Landsmanshaft	183
	Shul, Rabbi, and Cantor	190
	Versions of Belief	195
	From Heder to Secular School	200
	Dreamers of a Nation	204
	A Bit of Fun on the East Side	208
	Up into the Catskills	215
	Matchmakers, Weddings, Funerals	218
	To the Brim	222

7	The Restlessness of Learning	225
	"Americanizing" the Greenhorns	229
	A Visit to the Cafés	235
	A Passion for Lectures	238
	The Self-Educated Worker	244
	Fathers and Sons	249
8	Growing Up in the Ghetto	256
	Parents and Children	261
	Delinquents and Gangs	263
	Girls in the Ghetto	264
	Going to School	271
	Jewish Children, American Schools	274
	Immigrants and the Gary Plan	278
	City College: Toward a Higher Life	280
9	Jewish Labor, Jewish Socialism	287
	Early Weaknesses	289
	The Girls and the Men	295
	The Triangle Shirt Fire	304
	The Jewish Working Class	306
	The Socialist Upsurge	310
	The Meaning of Jewish Socialism	321
10	Breakup of the Left	325
	Civil War in the Garment Center	330
	Dual Unions—and the Furriers	338
	A Network of Culture	340
	Recovery, Growth, Adaptation	347
	From Politics to Sentiment	357
11	Getting into American Politics	360
	Getting on with Tammany	365
	The Jews and the Irish	374
	Maneuvering Within the City	377
	Low Roads, High Roads	383

12	American Responses	395
	The Native Reformers	398
	Stage, Song, and Comic Strip	401
	From Henry Adams to Henry James	405
	Legal Rights, Social Rebuffs	409

3 THE CULTURE OF YIDDISH

13	The Yiddish Word	417
	Sweatshop Writers	421
	Poets of Yiddishkeit	425
	The Rise of Di Yunge	428
	Three Yiddish Poets	432
	The Modernist Poets	439
	Literary Life on the East Side	440
	Yiddish Fiction in America	445
	After the Holocaust	451
	An Unyielding Voice	456
14	The Yiddish Theatre	460
	The Vital Hacks	463
	Time of the Players	467
	A Theatre of Festival	473
	Art and Trash	485
	An Art of Their Own	492
15	The Scholar-Intellectuals	497
	Where Should They Go?	500
	Dean of Critics	507
	A Gifted Voice	511
	A Disinterested Historian	513
16	The Yiddish Press	518
	Kindergarten and University	522
	A New Journalism	527
	Tell Me, Dear Editor	533

Voice of Immigrant Socialism	537
Other Papers, Other Voices	543
The Time of the Day	545
Writing to the End	549

4 DISPERSION

17	Journeys Outward	555
	Entertainers and Popular Artists	556
	Painters and Sculptors	573
	The American-Jewish Novelists	585
	The New York Intellectuals	598
18	At Ease in America?	608
	The Suburbs: New Ways to Live	613
	Into the Public Realm	621
	The Holocaust and After	626
	Israel and the American Jews	627
	A Fear Beyond Escaping	630
	The Immigrant Survivors	634
	Epilogue: Questions upon Questions	639
	Acknowledgments	649
	Reference Notes	651
	Glossary of Yiddish Terms	683
	Bibliographical Notes	685
	Index	695