

CONTENTS

List of illustrations viii

List of contributors ix

Series preface xiii

Introduction 1

Farah Karim-Cooper

Part One Genre, style and sources

1 Senecan belatedness and Titus Andronicus 15
Curtis Perry

2 Titus Andronicus: Elizabethan classicism and the styles of new tragedy 37
Goran Stanivukovic

3 Soliloquies in Titus Andronicus: An empirical approach 63
James Hirsh

Part Two Critical approaches: Race, culture and politics

4 'I have done thy mother': Racial and sexual geographies in Titus Andronicus 89
John Kunat

- 5 Remixing the family: Blackness and domesticity
in Shakespeare's Titus Andronicus 111

David Sterling Brown

- 6 'If I might have my will': Aaron's affect and race in Titus Andronicus 135

Carol Mejia LaPerle

Part Three Critical approaches: Bodies, emotions and metaphor

- 7 Metaphorically speaking: Titus Andronicus and the limits of utterance 159

Jennifer Edwards

- 8 Granular reading: Texture, language and surface marks in Titus Andronicus 179

Whitney Sperrazza

Part Four Performance and adaptation

- 9 'Did you see that?!': Titus Andronicus and theatrical transgression 203

Ralph Alan Cohen

- 10 In/di/gestion: Seneca→Shakespeare→South Park 223

Lizz Angello

- 11 'My tears will choke me, if I ope my mouth':
Framing, feasting and speaking sexual violence in Titus Andronicus, 2006–2017 249
Emma Whipday

Index 271