

Contents

- i Introduction 3

- ii Methodological Considerations 8
  - A. Requirements of Development Analysis
  - B. The Components of Social Phenomena
  - C. Models of Man

- iii An Outline of Behavioral Analysis 26
  - A. A Behavioral Model of Man
  - B. Other Behavioral Models of Man
  - C. The Individual's Point of View
  - D. An Outline of Propitious Circumstances

- iv Social Behavior and Economic Development 62
  - A. Behavioral, Psychological, and Social Factors
  - B. Some Components of Development Analysis
  - C. Some Examples of Behavioral Analysis
  - D. Conclusion

- ix

v	An Outline of Structural Analysis	102
A.	Social Aspects of the Behavioral Approach
B.	Problems of Structural Analysis
C.	A Behavioral Approach to Structural Analysis
D.	The Persistence of Social Structure
E.	The Alteration of Social Structure
F.	Procedures of Structural Analysis
vi	Social Structure and Economic Development	133
A.	The Behavioral Perspective of Social Structure and Economic Development
B.	The Vicos Project
C.	The Zande Scheme
D.	Saving
E.	Demographic Factors
F.	The Complexity of Social Reality
vii	An Outline of Systems Analysis	180
A.	Systems and Economic Development
B.	The Systems Approach
C.	Dynamic Aspects of Systems Analysis
D.	Large-scale Systems Analysis
viii	Social Systems and Economic Development	217
A.	World View
B.	A Component of World View: The "Capricious Universe"
C.	Communication
D.	Education
E.	Conclusion
ix	The Conditions of Behavior Change	249
A.	Deviation
B.	Innovation
C.	An Example of Deviation and Innovation: Entrepreneurs
D.	Political Institutions and Economic Development

xi Contents

x	A Behavioral Perspective of Planning and Action	283
	A. Summary of the Argument
	B. Indigenous Change and Development Programs
	C. Development Programs and the Behavioral Perspective
	D. Behavioral Characteristics of Development Programs
	E. The Behavioral Perspective and Conventional Wisdom
	F. Doing Good and Evil
	G. The Training of Program Personnel
	H. The Behavioral Perspective and Community Development
	I. The Behavioral Perspective and National Development Programs
xi	The Call of the Future	325
	A. Means and Ends
	B. Moral Aspects of the Behavioral Perspective
	C. Curtain
	References	333
	Index	361