

CONTENTS

---

FOREWORD	13
PREFACE	17
Chapter 1. INTRODUCTION: COMPARATIVE UNDERSTANDING OF FREEDOM AND LAW	21
I. Some Problems of Perspective in Comparative Legal Studies	21
II. A Transcultural Approach to Comparative Constitutional Law	24
III. Intercultural Discourse on Human Rights	25
IV. The Truth and the “Attitudinal Truth” about Human Rights	28
V. Personalism and Freedom of Expression	30
VI. Conclusion	37
PART I. THE ECOLOGY OF FREEDOM OF EXPRESSION IN JAPAN
Chapter 2. THE LAW ON LIBERTY IN MODERN HISTORY	45
I. Introduction	45
II. Expression Controls: Formation of the System, 1868–1912	46
A. Laying the Foundation: Early Meiji Japan, 1868–89	46
B. Freedom and the Meiji Constitutional System, 1889–1912	53
1. Public Meetings and Associations
2. Press Regulation
III. Refinement of Constitutional Repression, 1912–45	59
A. The Taishō Period, 1912–25	59
B. The Early Shōwa Period, 1925–45	65
C. Conclusion: 1868–1945	70
IV. The Constitutional Revolution of Freedom, 1945–83	71
A. The Occupation Period, 1945–52	71
1. The Freedom Orders: SCAPIN 66 and SCAPIN 93
2. Organizational Freedoms under SCAP
3. Mass Media Freedom during the Occupation
4. The Late Occupation Period, 1949–52
B. Independent Japan, 1952–83	82
Chapter 3. SOCIAL PATTERNS AND FREEDOM OF EXPRESSION	100
I. Assumptions and Caveats	100
II. Social Structure, Values, and Freedom, Past and Present	101
III. Some Tensions among Values Affecting Freedom of Expression	110
A. Consensus, Authority, and Free Speech	111

B.	“Individualistic Groupism” and Individual Expression	114
C.	“Inclusionary Groupism”	117
IV.	A Scale of Reticence and Freedom	119
V.	The Expansion of the Duty of Tolerance	120
Chapter 4.	OFFICIAL REGULATIONS AND PROMOTION OF FREEDOM: GENERAL SYSTEMS AND NORMS	129
I.	Official Systems Regulation and Promoting Freedom	129
A.	The Legal System	129
B.	Legal Education	130
C.	The Courts	133
D.	Lay Participation	140
E.	Police and Prosecutors	144
F.	Lawyers and Legal Aid	147
G.	Legal Scholars and Freedom	147
II.	Official Norms Regulating and Protecting Freedom	150
III.	Conclusion	153
	PART II. SOME LEGAL QUESTIONS ON FREEDOM OF EXPRESSION
Chapter 5.	THE FREEDOMS OF ASSEMBLY AND ASSOCIATION	161
I.	Introduction	163
II.	Freedom of Assembly	166
A.	Laws and Regulatory Agencies	166
1.	Laws and Regulations
2.	Local Public Safety Ordinances and Local Public Safety Commissions
3.	The Mobile Police Force ( Kidōtai )
B.	The Courts and Freedom of Assembly	175
1.	“The May Day Incident” and Related Cases
2.	The Niigata Ordinance Decision (1954)
3.	The Tokyo Ordinance Decision (1960)
4.	After Tokyo : Toward Refinement of Standards
5.	The Tokushima Ordinance Decision (1975) and Beyond
III.	Freedom of Association	188
IV.	The Subversive Activities Prevention Law ( Hakaikatsudō bōshihō )	190
V.	Conclusion	193
Chapter 6.	THE FREEDOM OF EXPRESSION OF WORKERS	205
I.	The History and Structure of the Labor Union Movement	205
II.	The “Spring Struggle” and Other Modes of Union Expression	213
III.	Laws and Agencies Affecting Worker Rights	220
A.	Labor Laws	220
B.	Special Government Agencies and Worker Freedom	225
IV.	Some Judicial Holdings Affecting Public Employee Freedom	231
A.	The Tokyo Central Post Office Case (1966)	232
B.	The Sendai Court Workers Union Incitement Case (1969)	232
C.	The Tokyo Teachers Union Case (1969)	234

D.	The Zennōrin Incitement Case (1973)	235
E.	The Sarufutsu Decision (1974)	236
F.	Worker Suits against Disciplinary Actions (1979 and 1980)	238
V.	Conclusion: The Teachers Union President Case (1980)	239
Chapter 7.	EDUCATION, TOLERANCE, AND FREEDOM OF EXPRESSION	248
I.	“Freedoms of the Spirit” ( Seishinteki jiyū ) and Freedom of Expression	248
A.	Japanism and Religious Expression	249
B.	Intellectual Freedoms and Politics	252
II.	The Regulation of School Textbooks	254
A.	The Ecology of the Textbook Issue	254
B.	Textbooks and Their Regulation before 1945	255
C.	The Occupation and the New Textbooks	257
D.	Other Education Controversies	258
E.	Textbook Certification since 1945	260
F.	The Publication and Local Selection of Textbooks	262
III.	The Ienaga History Textbook Trials	264
A.	The 1970 Textbook Decision (The Sugimoto Decision )	266
B.	The 1974 Textbook Decision (The Takatsu Decision )	267
C.	Appellate Decisions of 1975 and 1982	270
IV.	Conclusion: The Internationalization of the Textbook Dispute	270
Chapter 8.	THE MASS MEDIA AND FREEDOM OF EXPRESSION	281
I.	Introduction: The Media System	281
A.	Book and Magazine Publishing	282
B.	Newspapers and Broadcasting	283
II.	Freedom of Information and the Right to Know	289
A.	The “Media Privilege”	289
B.	The “Newsman’s Privilege”	290
C.	The Use of Media Photographs as Evidence	291
D.	The Use of Cinematic Film as Evidence before the Hakata Case	292
E.	The Hakata Station Film Case	294
F.	The Aftermath of the Hakata Film Decision	297
G.	Issues and Implications	298
III.	State Secrets and Investigative Journalism	303
IV.	Conclusion: The Freedom of Information Movement	305
Chapter 9.	DEFAMATION, PRIVACY, AND PRESS FREEDOM	314
I.	Introduction	314
II.	The Media and Rights of the Person	314
III.	The General Law on Defamation	318
IV.	Judicial Doctrine on Civil Defamation	320
A.	The Ex-Convict Candidate Case (1966)	320

B.	Some Lower Court Decisions in the 1970s	321
V.	The Courts on Criminal Defamation	323
A.	The Wakayama Jiji Case (1969)	323
B.	Injunction as a Remedy for Defamation	324
VI.	The Right of Privacy	325
A.	The After the Banquet Decision (1964)	326
B.	The Katō Case (1969)	326
C.	The Eros Plus Massacre Case (1970)	327
D.	The Kyoto Privacy Decision (1981)	329
Chapter 10.	THE OBSCENITY QUESTION	335
I.	Introduction	335
II.	The Law on Obscenity	336
III.	Customs Bureau Censorship	337
IV.	The Mass Media and Obscenity	338
A.	Broadcasting	338
B.	Pictures and Tapes	339
C.	The Motion Picture Industry	340
D.	The Print Media	345
V.	The Supreme Court on Obscenity	347
A.	The Lady Chatterly's Lover Decision (1957)	348
B.	The Marquis de Sade Decision (1969)	349
C.	The Yojōhan Decision (1980)	353
VI.	Conclusion	354
Chapter 11.	SOME OTHER ISSUES OF FREEDOM	362
I.	The Censorship of Prisoners	362
II.	The Freedom of Expression of Foreigners	363
III.	The Freedom to Use Handbills and Posters	364
IV.	Freedom of Advertising	366
V.	Copyright Law and Press Freedom	371
VI.	Election Campaigns and Freedom of Expression	372
A.	The Public Offices Election Law	372
B.	The Courts and the Election Law	375
VII.	Private Encroachments on Freedom of Expression	378
A.	Sōkaiya and Shareholders' Freedom	379
B.	Psychological Pressure and Freedom	380
C.	The Sōka Gakkai Free Speech Controversy	381
Chapter 12.	CONCLUSION: CONSTITUTIONAL THEORY, FREEDOM, AND TOLERANCE	393
I.	The Study and Interpretation of Constitutions	393
II.	Freedom and Tolerance in Japan and Elsewhere	396
Appendix:	COMPARATIVE INQUIRY ON FREEDOM OF EXPRESSION	401
INDEX		405