

Contents

Acknowledgments ix

Preface to the Morningside Edition xi

Introduction 1

1 Allegories of Spectatorship 29

1 The Complicity of the Spectator; Realism and the Desiring Spectator; Film and Dreams: Sherlock Jr.; Fiction and Voyeurism: A Paradigmatic Instance: Hitchcock's Rear Window; Rear Window: The Critique of Voyeurism; The Shattering of Distance; Voyeurism and Point-of-View; Voyeurism and Neighborliness; Godard's Erotic Sabotage; A Married Woman and Masculine, Feminine; Feminist Pornography: Numéro Deux and Every Man for Himself; Obscure Objects of Desire

2 The Process of Production 71

Art and the Culture Industry: Balzac's Lost Illusions; Hollywood on Hollywood: The Silent Period; Film and Productive Labor: The Man with a Movie Camera; Hollywood Reflexivity: The Sound Film; Sunset Boulevard; The Musical and Self-Flaunting Artifice; Reflexivity and Animation; Auteurism and Its Discontents; Fellini and 8 1/2; The New Hollywood: Peter Bogdanovich and Targets; New German Reflexivity: Beware of a Holy Whore; Truffaut and Day for Night; Filmmaking in the Third World; Andrzej Wajda and Man of Marble; Declining Stars: Fedora and Veronika Voss; Into the Eighties: Godard and Wenders

3 The Genre of Self-Consciousness 127

1 The Cameo Appearance: From Cervantes to Woody Allen; The Self-Conscious Genre: Summa, Anatomy, Carnival; The Centrality of Parody; The Quixotic Theme; The Narrative Strategies of Reflexivity; Story and Discourse; Tempo in Film and Novel; Titles and Intertitles; The Dialogue of

Author/Reader/Spectator; The Self-Correcting Style; The Indeterminate Text; The Incorporation of Criticism; Reflexive Adaptations: Tom Jones, Lolita, The French Lieutenant's Woman; The Multiplicity of Styles

- 4 The Carnival of Modernism 167
A Seminal Instance: Ubu Roi; Ubu's Grandchild: The Modernism of Jean-Luc Godard; Godard and Avant-Garde Theatre; Carnival and the Apocalypse: The Exterminating Angel; Ubu and Les Carabiniers; Les Carabiniers: The War Film Intertext; Carnival and Latin American Culture; Brazilian Modernism and the Cannibalist Metaphor; Mario de Andrade and the Carnivalization of Language; Macunaima: From Novel to Film; The Politics of Carnival
- 5 The Pleasures of Subversion 209
The Lessons of Brecht; The Lessons Applied: Tout Va Bien; The Politics of Technique; Further Applications: Numéro Deux; The Video Subversion of Language: Split Writing/Split Screen; Realism, Reflexivity, Sexuality: Sauve Qui Peut! (la Vie); The Politics of Pleasure: Jonah Who Will Be 25 in the Year 2000; Beyond Deconstruction
- Appendix Reflexivity and the Specifically Cinematic 255
- Notes 267
- Selected Bibliography for the 1985 Edition 277
- Index 281