

Contents

List of Figures	page viii
Acknowledgements	x
Introduction	1
Studies of Childhood in the Social Sciences	1
Historians and the 'New' Social Studies of Childhood	4
New Approaches to the History of Children	6
The Argument	10
The Scope and Organisation of the Book	11
Part I Childhood in Villages, Eighteenth and Nineteenth Centuries	15
1 Conceptions of Childhood in Rural Society	17
Boundaries of Childhood in Villages	17
Conceptions of Childhood among the Peasantry	29
The Significance of Childhood in Rural Society	31
Conclusion	32
2 Growing Up in Villages	33
The Social Context	35
Life and Death during Infancy	41
Childhood among the Peasantry	47
Conclusion	53
3 Work, Education and Religion for Children in the Countryside	55
Children's Work on the Land	55
The Expansion of Rural Industry	59
'Civilising' the Masses: Churches and Schools	63
The Impact of Reforms in Villages	70
Conclusion	78

Part II Childhood in Towns, c. 1700–1870	79
4 Enlightenment and Romanticism	81
Boundaries of Childhood in Towns	81
The Impact of the Enlightenment	83
The ‘Romantic Child’	90
The Changing Significance of Childhood	94
Conclusion	95
5 Middle- and Upper-Class Childhoods in Towns, c. 1700–1870	97
Advice to Parents Following the Enlightenment	98
Childhood among the Aristocracy	101
Childhood among the Middle Ranks	105
Conclusion	120
6 The ‘Lower Depths’: Working-Class Children in the Early Industrial Town	121
Infant and Child Health in Towns	122
Newborn Child Murder and Child Abandonment	125
The Wet-Nursing Business	130
Family Life among the ‘Lower Ranks’	131
Child Welfare during the Industrial Revolution	137
Conclusion	146
7 Work versus School during the Industrial Revolution	147
The ‘Industrial Revolution’, Child Labour and the Historians	147
Child Labour in the Factories	149
Child Labour in ‘Traditional’ Industries	159
The Rise and Fall of Child Labour in Industry	161
Religion and the Working Classes	164
Schooling and the Workers	166
Towards Mass Schooling	168
Conclusion	171
 Part III Childhood in an Industrial and Urban Society, c. 1870–2000	 173
8 The Scientific Approach to Childhood	175
Boundaries in the Age of Mass Schooling	175
The Nature of the Child in a Scientific (and Digital) Age	180
The Significance of Childhood during the ‘Century of the Child’	189
Conclusion	194
9 Growing Up during the Twentieth Century, Part 1: In the Family or on the Margins of Society	195
The Demographic Context	195
Advice to Parents: The Reign of Physicians and Psychologists	197

Table of Contents	vii
‘Haven in a Heartless World’: Family Life in the Twentieth Century	200
Marginal and Excluded Children	207
Conclusion	217
10 Growing Up during the Twentieth Century, Part 2: Light and Shade in an Affluent Society	218
The Economic and Social Context	219
Health and Mortality	221
The Material World of Children in an Age of Affluence	226
Children in Two World Wars	236
Conclusion	242
11 Work and School in an Urban-Industrial Society	244
Children’s Work in Transition, 1870–1914	244
Children’s Work in an Affluent Society, c. 1914–2000	250
Schooling in the Late Nineteenth and Twentieth Centuries	254
The ‘Democratisation’ of Education after 1945	262
Conclusion	270
Conclusion	272
Select Bibliography	276
Index	280