

Contents

1. Business and Industry in Japan	1
Environmental Influences on Industrial Organization	2
Special Features of Business Organization	6
Conclusions	15
2. The Structure of Industry	16
Seller Concentration	16
Mergers	28
Product Differentiation	30
Barriers to New Competition	34
Rapid Macroeconomic Growth	35
Company Finance and Capital Markets	37
International Linkages	41
Conclusions	45
3. Patterns of Competition	47
Development of Cartels	48
Seller Coordination	49
Government Coordination and Guidance	53
Effects of Collusive Practices	56
Conclusions	58
4. The Role of Intermarket Groups	59
The Prewar Zaibatsu	60
Zaibatsu Dissolution and Reassembly	62
Other Intermarket Groupings	68
Profitability and Efficiency of Group Membership	72
Interdependence among Groups	83
Conclusions	86
5. Allocative Efficiency	88
Determinants of Efficiency	88

Differences in Performance	89
Statistical Analysis of Performance	92
Market Structure and Wage-Price Movements	96
Conclusions	99
6. Technical Efficiency	101
Small Enterprise in Manufacturing	101
Small Enterprise in the Distributive Sector	115
Other Sources of Inefficiency	119
Conclusions	122
7. Imported Technology and Industrial Progress	124
Research and Economic Growth	124
Market Structure, Innovation, and Diffusion of Knowledge	127
Determinants of Productivity Growth	129
Conclusions	140
8. Government Policy toward Industry	141
Antimonopoly Legislation	141
Exemptions from Antimonopoly Law	146
Industrial Policy and Administrative Control of Competition	148
Conclusions	154
9. Reflections and Prospects	155
Appendix: Sources of Statistical Data	159
Index	165
 Tables
2-1. Shares of One Hundred Largest Japanese Nonfinancial Corporations in Total Corporate Paid-in Capital in Their Sectors, 1958 and 1963	17
2-2. Distribution of Industries and Value of Shipments in U.S. and Japanese Manufacturing Sectors, by Concentration Ratio, 1963	19
2-3. Regression Analysis of Determinants of Seller Concentration in Japanese Manufacturing Industries, 1963	24
2-4. Indexes of Concentration in the Japanese Manufacturing Sector and Selected Subsectors, 1950-70	27
2-5. Number of Recorded Japanese Mergers, by Size of Capital of Combined Companies, 1950-70	29
2-6. Number of Mergers of Large Japanese Firms, by Type of Merger, 1967-70	30
2-7. Average Advertising-to-Sales Ratios of Leading Firms in Nineteen Japanese Industries, 1961-70	31
2-8. Effective Rates of Interest Paid on Debt Capital by Japanese Manufacturing Corporations of Various Sizes, Selected Years, 1956-71	38

2-9. Average Finance Costs of 243 Large Japanese Manufacturing Firms, 1961-70	38
4-1. Distribution of Assets of Large Japanese Corporations, by Group Affiliation, 1955, 1962, and 1965	64
4-2. Affiliations of Principal Trading Partners of Selected Firms in Three Zaibatsu Groups	66
4-3. Ownership and Immediate Control of Large Japanese Joint-Stock Corporations, Fiscal 1966	69
4-4. Investments in and Loans to Related Enterprises by Leading Firms in Selected Japanese Industries, 1962 and 1967	71
4-5. Regression Analysis of Determinants of Profit Rates and Influence of Group Membership in 243 Large Japanese Manufacturing Companies, 1961-70	76
4-6. Strength of Three Zaibatsu's Affiliates in 64 Major Concentrated Markets, by Share of Market Held, 1955	84
5-1. Regression Analysis of Determinants of Average Profit Rates, 35 Manufacturing Industries, 1961-70	94
6-1. Regression Analysis of Determinants of Proportion of Employers and Own-Account Workers in the National Labor Force, 34 Countries, Late 1960s	104
6-2. Utilization of Subcontractors in Japanese Manufacturing Industries, by Size of Principal Enterprise, 1973	112
6-3. Number of Small and Medium Enterprises and Proportion Engaged in Subcontracting, by Principal Japanese Manufacturing Industry, 1971	113
7-1. Regression Analysis of Determinants of Growth of Labor Productivity in Japanese Manufacturing Industries, 1958-67	136
8-1. Violations of Antimonopoly Law Found by Fair Trade Commission of Japan, by Type of Offense, 1947-73	145
8-2. Japanese Cartel Agreements Exempted from Antimonopoly Law by Fair Trade Commission or Competent Ministry, by Exempting Statute, 1964-73	148