

CONTENTS

PREFACE

page v

PART I. ORGANIZATION

CHAPTER I. The Rise of the Towns

By H. VAN WERVEKE, Professor in the University of Ghent

I Introduction	3
II Roman Survivals	5
III The New Fortifications	8
IV The Merchant Class before the Urban Renaissance	10
V The Permanent Establishment of the Merchants in the Towns	11
VI The Contour of the First Towns	14
VII The Origins of Capital	15
VIII The Status of Individuals within the Town	17
IX The Status of Town Land	19
X Types of Towns other than Trading Towns	22
XI The Town Constitutions	24
XII The Urban Patriciate	30
XIII The Democratic Revolution	34
XIV Town Populations	37
XV Conclusion	40

CHAPTER II. The Organization of Trade

By R. DE ROOVER, Professor in Brooklyn College

I A General Picture	42
II The Travelling Trade before 1300	46
III Italian Hegemony in the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Centuries	70
IV The Organization of the Hanseatic and English Trade	105

CHAPTER III. Markets and Fairs

By C. VERLINDEN, Professor in the University of Ghent and Director of the Belgian Academy in Rome

I Early Fairs and Markets	page 119
II The Fairs of Champagne and Flanders	126
III The Fairs of Chalon, Geneva and Lyons	137
IV Fairs of Germany, Scandinavia and Brabant	142
V The Smaller Fairs and the End of the Middle Ages	150

PART II. POLICIES

CHAPTER IV. The Economic Policies of Towns

By A. B. HIBBERT, Lecturer in the University of Cambridge

I Introductory	157
II The Permanent Elements	158
1 The Defence of Trading Interests	161
2 The Defence of the Consumer	172
III The Elements of Variety and Change	179
1 The Early Period: 'Freedom' and Fiscal Policies	181
2 The Thirteenth Century: Saturation and Exploitation	198
3 The Late Middle Ages: Crisis and Response	206

CHAPTER V. The Gilds

By SYLVIA L. THRUPP, Alice Freeman Palmer, Professor of History,
University of Michigan

I The Problems of Gild History	230
II The Development of Gild Organization	232
III Gild Economic Power in Local Trade and Industry	246
IV Gild Influence in Export Industry	265
V Gild Influence on Investment and Innovation	271
VI Conclusions	279

CHAPTER VI. The Economic Policies of Governments

I Introduction	page 281
By EDWARD MILLER, Professor of Medieval History, University of Sheffield
II France and England	290
By EDWARD MILLER
1 Introductory	290
2 The Early Middle Ages	291
3 The Twelfth and Thirteenth Centuries	299
(a) Administrative Progress and Urban Liberties	299
(b) Government Finance	302
(c) Governments and Economic Affairs	306
(d) War and Economic Policy	313
4 The Later Middle Ages	316
(a) The Economic Background and Government Finance	316
(b) Wages, Agriculture and Industry	321
(c) The Home Market and the Foreign Trader	328
(d) The Balance of Trade and the Organization of Commerce	333
(e) Conclusion	338
III The Low Countries	340
By H. VAN WERVEKE
1 Introduction	340
2 The Princes and the Towns	344
3 Foreign Trade	346
4 Internal Trade: The Economic Framework of the Country	348
5 Internal Trade: The Staples	351
6 Industry	354
7 Monetary Problems	356
8 Exploitation of the Soil	359
IV The Baltic Countries	361
By E. LÖNNROTH, Professor in the Commercial Academy of Gothenberg
1 Government Finance	361
(a) The Economic Background	362
(b) The Early Kingdoms of Poland and Scandinavia	364
(c) Feudal Decentralization in Thirteenth- and Fourteenth-century Scandinavia	372
(d) The Establishment of the Teutonic Order	374

IV The Baltic Countries (continued)
(e) The Re-emergence of Poland and the Decline of the Teutonic Order	page 377
(f) The Scandinavian Kingdoms in the Later Middle Ages	380
(g) Conclusions	384
2 Governments and Trade	385
(a) The Achievement of Hanseatic Supremacy in the Baltic	385
(b) The Commercial Policy of the Teutonic Order	390
(c) The Scandinavian Nations and Hanseatic Privileges in the Later Middle Ages	392
(d) Conclusions	396
V The Italian and Iberian Peninsulas	397
By C. M. CIPOLLA, Professor in the Universities of Venice and California
1 Introduction	397
2 Promoting a Balanced Economy	399
(a) Supply of Commodities of Prime Necessity	399
(b) Stabilization of Prices	404
(c) Control of the Supply of Precious Metals	407
3 Increasing Production	408
4 Improving the Mechanism of the Market	419

CHAPTER VII. Public Credit, with Special Reference to North-Western Europe

By E. B. FRYDE, Reader in History in the University College of Wales, Aberystwyth; and M. M. FRYDE, Lecturer in Columbia University, New York

I Introductory: Main Features and Phases	430
II The Beginnings	440
III The Crusades and the Coming of the Italians to Northern Europe	446
IV England	451
1 The Early Period	451
2 The Royal Credit System at its Height	454
3 The Royal Credit System in Decline	463

V	France	page 472
1	The Thirteenth Century: A General Survey	473
2	Royal Credit Dealings with Professional Financiers (after 1285)	477
3	Borrowing from Officials and 'Forced Loans'	481
4	The Decline and Revival of the French Monarchy, 1380-1483	485
VI	The Netherlands	492
1	The Netherlands before the Formation of the Burgundian State	492
2	The Burgundian State (to 1477)	500
VII	Germany	507
1	Introductory	507
2	Royal Credit Operations	509
3	Credit Operations of German Princes	518
VIII	The Towns of Northern Europe	527
1	Introductory	527
2	The French Towns	533
3	The Towns of the Netherlands	538
	(a) Flemish Towns (Thirteenth and Fourteenth Centuries)	538
	(b) The Belgian Towns in the Burgundian Period	540
4	The German Towns	542

CHAPTER VIII. Conceptions of Economy and Society

By GABRIEL LE BRAS, Dean of the Faculty of Law and Economic Science, University of Paris

I	Environment and Sources	554
II	Doctrines of Wealth	557
III	The Acquisition of Property	559
IV	Lawful Incomes	564
V	Social Status	570
Appendix: Coinage and Currency		576
By P. SPUFFORD, Lecturer in Keele University
Bibliographies		603
Index		675