

TABLE OF CONTENTS

	PAGE
PREFACE	vii
CHRONOLOGICAL TABLE OF THE LIFE OF RAMON LULL	xv
BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTE	xvii

CHAPTER I

Mallorca. Its early history. Reconquest from the Moors. Birth of Ramon Lull in Mallorca. Education. Years spent in the royal service. Marriage. Profligate life. Conversion	1
---	---

CHAPTER II

Hopes and projects. Pilgrimage. Influence of St. Ramon de Penyafort. Return to Mallorca. Studies in Arabic, theology and philosophy. Episode of the Moorish slave	26
---	----

CHAPTER III

The Book of Contemplation . Evidence as to date. Plan, method and scope of the book. Summary of its content. Lull's views on the conversion of unbelievers, especially of Moslems. Estimates of the Book of Contemplation . Maturity of its outlook and style. Its intrinsic value	43
--	----

CHAPTER IV

The Book of the Gentile and the three wise men . Argument. Ramon Lull on Moslem beliefs. Weaknesses and merits of the book. Stylistic qualities. Sources and their treatment. Popularity	82
---	----

CHAPTER V

	PAGE
The retirement to Mount Randa. The Divine illumination : historical and legendary accounts. The mata escrita . Visit to La Real. Composition of the Art General or Ars Magna . Other works of this period. Return to Mount Randa. Legend of the heavenly shepherd	101

CHAPTER VI

Ramon Lull visits Prince James of Mallorca at Montpellier. Works of this period : Book of the Order of Chivalry and Doctrine for Boys . Foundation of a missionary college at Miramar. History of the college. Works probably written at Miramar : Book of the Holy Spirit , Complaint of Our Lady Saint Mary , Hours of Our Lady Saint Mary	115
---	-----

CHAPTER VII

Ramon Lull's first visit to Rome. Death of Pope John XXI. Unknown period of Lull's life (1277-1282) : conflicting theories. Visit to Perpignan : The Sin of Adam . Sojourn in Montpellier : Ars Demonstrativa ; Book of the first and second intentions	142
--	-----

CHAPTER VIII

Blanquerna (c. 1283). Uncertainty as to its exact date. Outline of its narrative. As a whole, Lull's greatest literary achievement. Its faults largely the faults of its epoch. Its merits of characterization, construction and style. The Franciscan spirit in Blanquerna . Its portrayal of the social and political life of its time. Its insistence on missionary effort. The Book of the Lover and the Beloved and The Art of Contemplation : two short works for contemplatives	159
--	-----

CHAPTER IX

Ramon Lull returns to Rome. Death of Martin IV and election of Honorius IV. The Hundred Names of God , written in Rome. The Book of the Tartar and the Christian . Lull leaves Rome for Paris : his stay there and relations with Philip the Fair	192
---	-----

CHAPTER X

Works written in Paris. Felix , or the Book of Marvels (1286). Argument of the book. Felix compared with Blanquerna , to its disadvantage. The autobiographical element in Felix . Special interest of its seventh part, the Book of the Beasts	205
---	-----

CHAPTER XI

	PAGE
Paris, Montpellier and Rome. The Book of Saint Mary . Minor works. Sojourn in Genoa, preparatory to an African mission. Spiritual crisis: problems of interpretation raised by the evidence. Recovery and journey to Tunis. First missionary experiences. Escape from a furious crowd. Return to Europe	223

CHAPTER XII

Arrival at Naples. The Book of the five wise men . The Affatus . Election of Celestine V. The Petition of Ramon . Boniface VIII succeeds Celestine V: Lull again unsuccessful at Rome. The Desconort : its substance, metrical qualities and spiritual music	246
--	-----

CHAPTER XIII

Ramon Lull professes as a Franciscan tertiary. The Tree of Science . Genoa, Montpellier and Paris. The Tree of the Philosophy of Love : its poetry, its artificiality, its variety, its fervour. Summary of its argument. Lull's complete immersion in his subject. A book for actives	268
--	-----

CHAPTER XIV

Ramon Lull in Paris (continued). Relations with Le Myésier. Verse writings: the Song of Ramon , the Dictat . Prose: the Book of Prayer : its singular qualities. Return to Barcelona and Mallorca: disputations with Jews and Moslems. The Medicine for Sin . Minor prose works. Journey to Cyprus and Armenia. Return to Mallorca: the Thousand Proverbs . Genoa and Montpellier. The Liber de Fine	288
---	-----

CHAPTER XV

Clement V succeeds to the Papacy: Lull has an interview with him at Lyons. Lull again in Paris: his meeting with Duns Scotus. Second African mission: success and failure at Bugia. His debates in captivity: Ramon and Hamar. Departure from Bugia. Shipwreck off Pisa. Lull in Pisa, Genoa and Montpellier. Visit to the Pope at Avignon	320
--	-----

CHAPTER XVI

Lull's last visit to Paris: his campaign against Averroism: minor works written there. He attends the Council of Vienne. His Petition to the General Council and poem entitled The Council . His experiences on the journey described in the Phantasticus . Results of the Council	342
---	-----

CHAPTER XVII

	PAGE
Ramon Lull returns to Mallorca. His comments on the results of the Council. Foundation of the Lullian School. Lull's testament. His visit to Sicily, brief return to Mallorca, and departure on his third African mission. His landing at Bugia, experiences in Tunis, and probable return to Bugia. His martyrdom. Problems of fact and chronology. Burial at Palma. Lull's tomb to-day . . .	359

CHAPTER XVIII

The history of Lullism. Veneration of Lull's memory in Mallorca. Its persecution by Nicholas Eymeric and the results. The spread of Lullian teaching. Attempts to secure Lull's canonization and their outcome. Dominican persecutions in the eighteenth century. Feyjóo and Pasqual. Lullism in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries: great names. Miramar and Randa . . .	376
---	-----

CHAPTER XIX

Ramon Lull to-day. Claims made for him in the past as prophet, philosopher, alchemist, theologian, etc. Beginnings of the modern orientation of Lullian studies at the time of the Catalan renaissance. Lull as patriarch of Catalan literature,—as an immortal personality,—as active and contemplative in one,—as a typical Franciscan . . .	401
SELECT BIBLIOGRAPHY	421
INDEX TO THE WORKS OF RAMON LULL (genuine and apocryphal) dealt with in the text	435
GENERAL INDEX	443