

Contents

Preface	ix
PART ONE THE TERM, ITS HISTORY, AND ITS MEANING	1
1 The Use of the Term in Economics	3
Not Used until Recently	3
The First Users: a Detective Story	4
Adoption of the Term for Official Use	9
2 The Meaning of the Term and its Scope	13
Unanimity, Consensus, Divergence	13
Division of Labour, Mobility, and Non-discrimination	16
Actual versus Potential: Opportunities Realised and Unrealised	18
Freedom from Restrictions versus Selective Activism	20
Monetary and Fiscal Integration	21
Degrees of Economic Integration	24
Degree of Integration versus Extension of Integrated Area	27
Economic Independence and the Fear of Foreign Blackmail	29
Positive Economics versus Welfare Economics	29
A Taxonomic and Semantic Summary	32
The Inclusion of Public Goods	34
PART TWO THE IDEA AND ITS DIFFERENT STRANDS	37
3 Economic Thought, Economic Analysis, and Political Aims	39
Economic Thought and Economic Analysis	39
Economic and Political Thought	40

4 The Main Strands of the Idea	43
Division of Labour	43
The Extent of the Market	44
Specialisation	45
Absolute and Comparative Advantage	46
Free-Trade Doctrine: Adherence and Dissent	48
Dividing the Gains from Trade	49
The Optimum Tariff to Capture More of the Gains	51
Market Failure as Reason for Protection	51
Infant Industries and Developing Countries	52
Self-Sufficiency, Independence, Power	53
Influencing the Distribution of Income	53
Raising Labour Income and Improving the Terms of Trade	55
Equalising the Earnings of Equal Factors through Free Trade	57
Stopping the Equalisation Process	59
The Theorem Expanded and Refined	60
The Assumptions Reconsidered	63
Heterogeneous Factors	64
Equalising the Earnings of Labour through International Mobility of Factors	65
Increasing Inequality through Factor Movements	66
International Transfer of Technology and Enterprise	67
Transport and Communication	68
Transfers of Money	68
Optimum Currency Area	70
Integration of Capital Markets	71
Capital Movements and Adjustment Mechanism	73
Tax Incentives and Disincentives for Foreign Investment	74
The Optimal Combination of Investment Tax and Import Tariff	76
Fiscal Integration	76
Border Tax Adjustments to Compensate for Tax-Rate Inequalities	79
The Forms of Regional Arrangements	79
The Height of Tariffs, Imposed, Abolished, or Altered	80
Imperfect Competition, Monopoly, and Oligopoly	82
Forced Efficiency	82
Cartels and Mergers	83
Union between Weaker and Stronger Nations	84
Non-discriminatory Protection versus Discriminatory Liberalisation	85

Trade Creation and Trade Diversion	86
Economies of Scale	87
Consumption Effects of Price Reduction	89
The Two Effects Together	89
Another Two-Step Analysis	90
Investment Creation and Investment Diversion	90
The Degree of Integration	93
Internal versus External Integration	93
Interpreting the Changes in Trade Ratios	95
Methodological Distinctions regarding the Effects of Integration	99
Economic Welfare, Social Welfare, Pride and Envy	100
The Inclusion of Public Goods	101
A Compromise between Free-Traders and Protection- ists	102
Political Integration	102
PART THREE THE CONTRIBUTORS	103
5 Historians of Customs Unions and Integration Projects	105
The Eras and the Areas	106
Bibliography of Historical Writings	115
Relating to Two or More Subjects	115
Holy Roman Empire	116
Great Britain	117
France	117
British Colonies and Commonwealth	118
United States of America	118
German Zollverein	119
Other European Customs Unions	120
Trade Agreements and MFN Clause	121
Unsuccessful European Projects	122
Worldwide Arrangements	125
West-European Co-operation since 1948	127
East-European Co-operation since 1948	130
Latin America and Caribbean Islands since 1948	131
Africa	133
Asia	135
Australia	136
Historians' Predictions and Explanations	137

6	Political Economists as Proponents, Promoters, and Opponents	138
	Proposals for Economic Integration before 1800	138
	Proposals for Various European Arrangements, 1814–1918	139
	Proposals for European Customs Unions, 1918–39	146
	Proposals for Economic and Monetary Integration, 1943–74	148
7	Statesmen, Men of Affairs, and Men of Letters	157
	Kings, Courtiers, and Philosophers, 1459–1814	157
	From Napoleon to World War I, 1812–1914	161
	Between Two World Wars, 1915–39	165
	World War II and After, 1940–70	168
8	Groups, Committees, and Organisation Staffs	175
	Choosing the Order of Presentation	176
	The World at Large	177
	Europe 1925–37	183
	Western Europe 1943–9	186
	Western Europe 1949–58	191
	Western Europe 1959–75	196
	Eastern Europe 1945–75	205
	The Americas	206
	Africa	210
	Asia and the Far East	211
9	Economic Theorists	213
	General Guidelines	213
	The Advantages of Extending the Areas of Trade, 1691–1879	215
	Eloquent Advocates of Protection or Free Trade, 1827–61	223
	Factor Prices and Incomes, Factor Endowment and Mobility, Tariffs and Terms of Trade, 1878–1976	225
	The Effects of Customs Union and Other Forms of Economic Integration, 1892–1976	250
	Monetary and Fiscal Integration, 1923–76	282
	Concluding Remark	299
	Index	301