

Contents

Foreword	xi
Executive Summary	xv

Crisis? What crisis?

Orderly workouts for sovereign debtors 1

Barry Eichengreen and Richard Portes

1	Introduction	3
2	Bankruptcy in theory and practice	7
	2.1 Theory	8
	2.2 Domestic practice	11
	2.3 Bankruptcy in the sovereign setting	14
3	The evolution of procedures for renegotiating sovereign debts	19
	3.1 Bondholders' representative committees	19
	3.2 The Paris Club	23
	3.3 The London Club	26
	3.4 Managing the debt crisis of the 1980s	27
4	Options for reform	28
	4.1 Bondholders' protective committees	28
	4.2 New contractual arrangements to enhance ex-ante efficiency	30
	4.3 Providing ex ante for ex-post procedures	34
	4.4 Closing the courts to creditors through statute or treaty	36
	4.5 Coordinating a temporary standstill through IMF Article VIII(2)(b)	37
	4.6 An international bankruptcy court or tribunal	38
	4.7 A mediation and conciliation service	42
	4.8 Roles for the IMF	43
	4.9 Recapitulation	46
5	An agenda for reform	47
	5.1 Recommendations	48
	5.2 Alternatives and evaluation	51
6	Conclusion	55

Annex 1: The theory of bankruptcy and mechanism design 69

Francesca Cornelli and Leonardo Felli

1	The need for a bankruptcy procedure	71
2	Bankruptcy without collateral	73
3	The optimal design of a bankruptcy	74
	3.1 Ex-post efficiency	74
	3.2 Ex-ante incentives for creditors	76
	3.3 Renegotiation	78
	3.4 Ex-ante incentives of the debtor	80
	3.5 Improving ex-ante contractual arrangements	81
4	Final issues	82

Annex 2: Some issues in sovereign debt and distressed reorganizations	87
Julian Franks
1 Introduction	89
2 Application of the main features of US and UK corporate bankruptcy codes for sovereign state reorganization	89
2.1 The United States's Chapter 11	90
2.2 The United Kingdom's receivership code	93
2.3 Competing jurisdictions	93
2.4 Summary	94
3 Contractual arrangements in sovereign financing	94
3.1 Clarity of property rights and their enforcement	95
3.2 Dispersal of country debt without cross-guarantees	96
3.3 Improved collateralization of debt	97
3.4 Widening of financial instruments to improve risk sharing	97
3.5 Limiting the capital structure of the government's financing	98
4 Conclusion	98
Annex 3: Considerations of international law	103
Christopher Greenwood and Hugh Mercer
1 Introduction	105
2 The differences in the present legal positions of the main classes of a state's creditors	105
3 Is there an analogy between the position in international law when a state debtor defaults and that of a corporation under domestic bankruptcy law?	107
4 Could an analogy between international law principles on sovereign debt and national bankruptcy law be created or strengthened?	108
4.1 The power to impose restructuring terms on creditors	109
4.2 The power to exclude the 'rogue creditor' from recourse to the courts or other unilateral action	111
4.3 The need for a tribunal which would exercise the overall supervisory and coercive role performed by national courts when exercising jurisdiction over a bankrupt corporation	113
5 Conclusion	113
Appendix: The Allied Bank litigation	116
Annex 4: Multilateral sovereign debt restructuring: The Paris Club and the London Club	119
Giovanni Vitale
1 The Paris Club	121
1.1 Rescheduling sessions	121
1.2 Rescheduling terms	124
1.3 The terms for the poorest countries	125
2 The London Club	127

2.1	Procedures	127
2.2	Restructuring terms	128
2.3	Restructuring process	128
2.4	The London Club: An historical perspective	129